'DEVIL DOGS' SEARCH FOR SANDINO

THREE GROUPS SEEK REBEL CHIEF AFTER AMBUSHING TROOPS

Both Candidates For President Express
Sorrow For Act

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, March 2.—Three separate detachments of "devil dogs" blazed trails northward through the Nicaraguan jungles today in their search for General Sandino and his guerrilla followers who ambushed a marine pack train Monday afternoon, killing five men and wounding eight others.

Two of the detachments are commanded by Colonels Dunlap and Wallace. A provisional mounted detachment under command of Major Rockey is supporting these two.

Other detachments are moving northeast from Estel and south and west from Ocotal.

Both President Diaz and General Moncada, Liberal nominee for president, have expressed their profound sorrow and sympathy to American Minister Eberhardt for the latest American losses.

Although bitter political enemies, both Diaz and Moncada are rendering every assistance to the American forces in trying to run down Sandino.

It may be at least two days more before the wounded survivors of the pack train will arrive here, it was admitted at Brigade headquarters here. The wounded men must be brought by mule-back or built cart to Ocotal from Condega and thence by airplane to the naval hospital here.

PHYSICIAN TO DIE ON MURDER CHARGE

CHICAGO, March 2.—Dr. Amante Rongetti, head of the Ashland Boulevard Hospital, must die in the electric chair for the death, through an illegal operation of Miss Loretta J. Ender.

A verdict finding the doctor guilty and fixing his punishment at death, was returned in Judge Frank B. Comerford's court last night by a jury which had deliberated three hours.

Dr. Rongetti is the first convicted murderer in Cook County to face the newly installed electric chair. He is also the first person in Illinois to receive the extreme penalty in connection with a fatal consequence of an illegal operation.

JORDAN, PEERLESS MAY CONSOLIDATE

CLEVELAND, March 2.—Possibility of a consolidation of the Jordan and Peerless motor companies, loomed here again today with the announcement that Edward Ver Linden, former president of the Peerless Motor Car Corporation has become associated with the Jordan interests.

Although no intimation has been made that Ver Linden's connection with the Jordan concern would result in a merger, it was believed in motor circles that such a deal might not be far off.

Ver Linden will begin his new duties Monday, according to Edward S. Jordan, president of the Jordan Corporation. Jordan will concentrate his attention on sales while Ver Linden will guide the plant affairs, Jordan said.

MRS. GOODHUE IS REPORTED BETTER

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., March 2.—Mrs. Laura Goodhue was considerably cheered today because of the arrival and visit of her daughter, Mrs. Calvin Coolidge, who is herself recovering from a recent attack of grippe. Mrs. Coolidge made two visits to the Dickinson-Coolidge Hospital following her arrival, and planned to spend most of her time there today.

The condition of the 78-year-old Mrs. Goodhue has not materially changed for some time. Dr. E. J. Hayes, her physician, stated she is in no immediate danger. She was falling slowly because of her advanced years.

Mrs. Goodhue was stricken with an attack of influenza in the winter and has been convalescing very slowly.

FLYERS START

MITCHEL FIELD, N. Y., March 2.—Deonnoe Costes and Joseph Sherry, French trans-Atlantic fliers, left here at 11:37 this morning for Detroit, on the first leg of their proposed trans-continental flight. They will follow the air mail route.

VELMA WEST PREPARES TO GO ON TRIAL ON MURDER CHARGE

PAINESVILLE, O., March 2.—The defense expects to call at least thirty witnesses in the Velma West first degree murder trial, which starts here Monday, March 5, it was learned today.

As the state presented fifty-one witnesses before the Lake County Grand Jury which on January 12 indicted Mrs. West for the hammer-slaying of her husband, T. Edward West, December 6, 1927, all indications point to a lengthy trial.

New clothes are being brought to the youthful Velma for the trial, by her mother, Mrs. B. L. Van Woert, of East-Cleveland. All dress-purchased are black, it was said. A pair of low-heeled shoes were to be supplied also.

As time for the trial draws near, Velma is showing increasing signs of worry, according to Sheriff Edward Rasmussen. Miss Nellie Tompkins, of Madison, Ohio, has been staying with the twenty-one-year-old prisoner at night, recently, while Mrs. Cora Nash, who had been acting as night-guard, has been transferred to day duty.

"Tay Pay" Arrives

T. P. O'Connor, "Father of the House of Commons," has arrived in New York for a holiday during which he expects to recover his health. The great Irishman is 80 years old, but has no idea of retirement. Instead, he expects to plunge back into his work with renewed zeal after recuperating in this country.

HIRAM REED TAKES WITNESS STAND TO DENY DYNAMITING

Accused Bomber To Repudiate Three Confessions

OTTAWA, Ill., March 2.—Hiram Reed, accused school bomber, was to take the witness stand in the LaSalle County Circuit Court here today and tell the jury he had nothing to do with the explosion at the Pleasant Valley school house, which nearly cost the life of his teacher, Iola Bradford.

Reed planned to repeat in the presence of the jury the testimony he gave earlier in the week at the hearing held before Judge Frank Hayes on the question of admissibility of his confessions as evidence.

His three confessions, one signed and two oral, already have been related to the jury by prosecution witnesses, who testified after Judge Hayes over-ruled objections to their testimony.

Reed will testify that he signed the original confession and made subsequent similar statements because he was assured that if he did so, he would be free to marry Miss Bradford, who is to become the mother of his child, and that she would be shielded from publicity.

He intends to declare he still loves Iola, and "would be married to her now" if the county officials had not "poisoned her mind" against him.

With Reed's testimony, the defense plans to rest its case. The state closed last yesterday, but may call one or two rebuttal witnesses.

Indications are that Reed's fate will be placed in the hands of the jury by tomorrow noon.

THIRTEEN CARS ARE DERAILED

TOLEDO, O., March 2.—Thirteen coaches of a fast New York Central passenger train from Chicago, enroute to Cleveland, left the rails at Swanton, twenty miles west of here early today, two of the cars overturning. The train carried 131 passengers but no one was seriously hurt.

Another train was immediately rushed to the scene and passengers resumed the trip on the latter. A broken rod on the locomotive of the wrecked train is believed to have caused it to leave its tracks, pulling the cars along. There were nine Pullman coaches on the train and many passengers were routed from their berths. Work of clearing the tracks was begun at once.

TWO KILLED, THREE HURT AT CROSSING

TOLEDO, O., March 2.—Two people were dead and three other persons were in a hospital here today as a result of a grade crossing accident three miles south of Perrysburg late Thursday.

The dead are Cyril Plovie, 39, and his sixteen-year-old daughter, Ida. His wife, Lily, 39, and a child, 37, and Basil Brehent, 50, are in the hospital suffering from slight injuries.

An interurban car of the Toledo Branch Green line struck the auto in which the people were riding at a crossing on the Dixie Highway near Perrysburg. All are residents of Cloverdale, Ohio.

Plovie was killed instantly, and his daughter died this morning in the East Side Hospital here.

FIVE STORES WIPED OUT BY FLAMES

KITTANNING, Pa., March 2.—Firemen believed they had checked a blaze here today that raged for eleven hours, breaking out anew intermittently until damage estimated between $350,000 and $500,000 was done.

Five store buildings and offices above were destroyed by the flames as firemen from seven nearby towns attempted to bring the conflagration under control.

CONGRESS BATTLES OVER STALKER BILL AMENDING DRY LAW

Wets Say Measure Would Favor Big Boot-
legger.

WASHINGTON, March 2.—Another "wet" and "dry" fight in congress was breaking today over the Stalker bill, raising the maximum penalty for a first violation of the Volstead act, excepting only possession of liquor, to five years imprisonment or a fine of $10,000.

Backed by the department of justice, dry leaders declared they would beat the amendment through in the present session.

At the same time the wets both ridiculed the measure for an alleged "joke" in it and declared that it put a prohibition law violator and a bank robber on the same basis.

Placed on the calendar by favorable action on the house judiciary committee, the bill is scheduled to be called up for a vote in the near future.

Rep. Laguardia (R) of New York, a "wet" member of the committee, asserted that the amendment would be hailed with delight by the bootleggers.

"The bill does raise the maximum sentence but it also removes the present provisions of the law which make a jail sentence mandatory for a second violation of the law," he said.

"The department of justice wants the amendment so that liquor cases won't have to be tried under the conspiracy statutes. They are falling into a trap."

"Under this amendment, the big violator will pay a fine or let a truck driver serve a sentence in jail. The big bootlegger, who sits behind a roulette desk, can only be reached through trial for conspiracy."

TWO AVIATORS DEAD IN CRASH

SALEM, Ore., March 2.—Dare Soper, a duagist of Dayton, Ore., who had ambitions to become an aviator, and Everett Boedecker, pilot, are dead here today as the result of an airplane crash.

Flying in an old, reconstructed plane, the machine was seen to dip, then roll over on its side and crash.

Soper was taken from the crashed plane dead and Boedecker died later in a local hospital.

ON MYSTERY TRIP

BOSTON, March 2.—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and three flying companions, who took off from East Boston airport on a "mystery flight" today planned to stop "somewhere in New York State" within two hours flying distance of Boston—probably either Curtis Field, L. I., or Albany, International News Service learned from an official source.

THE WEST TRIAL

James L. Kilgallen, one of the foremost reporters in the country, will cover the trial of Velma West for International News Service and The Gazette. The trial begins next Monday at Painesville, O.

Kilgallen has covered with distinction many big national stories, including such celebrated murder trials as the Hall-Mills case, the Snyder-Gray case and the trial a few months ago of George Remus in Cincinnati. His vivid descriptive story of the execution of Ruth Snyder and Judd Gray recently evoked the highest praise from editors all over the country.

The Velma West trial promises to be of unusual interest in Ohio. It will be covered accurately and entertainingly in International News Service dispatches.

SCIENTIST WEIGHING WORLD IS NEARING GOAL

WASHINGTON, March 2.—Buried in a laboratory-cave thirty five feet under ground Dr. Paul R. Heyl, physicist at the U. S. Bureau of standards has entered into the third and last year of his study of the weight of old mother earth.

The experiment, launched in 1926, will be completed during the present year, Heyl said today. Five separate calculations of the constant were made in 1927, with an average of 6.654.

From the gravitational constant is calculated the weight of the world, estimated at tons in the

Turns Radio Chef

Mrs. James J. Davis, wife of the secretary of labor, has become a culinary advisor to the nation's housewives over the radio. She is scheduled to broadcast from Washington the favorite dishes of great men and women of the world as found in the Congressional cookbook.

SUBWAY, ELEVATED WORKERS PREPARED TO LAUNCH STRIKE

Only Intervention By
Mayor Walker May
Prevent

NEW YORK, March 2.—Subway and elevated workers on the Interborough Rapid Transit Company's lines here are expected to go on strike at midnight tomorrow unless intervention by Mayor James J. Walker today is successful.

Meanwhile, 700 strikebreakers, guarded by police, have been imported by the Interborough and are ready for duty. Motormen are being trained hurriedly.

Reports were current today that Thomas E. Mitten, chairman of the board of the Philadelphia Rapid Transit Company, will manage the Interborough lines if the city recaptures them during the strike. Mitten has leased an apartment here. If hired by Mayor Walker, he will have virtually dictatorial powers.

Heads of large business concerns have arranged to take their employees to and from work by other means of transportation if a strike is called.

FREE DEATH SUSPECT

CLEVELAND, March 2.—A suspect who had been held by local police in connection with the slaying of Peter Arelio, 31, in Mansfield, O., was free today. The man was released yesterday afternoon when Mansfield detectives failed to identify him in connection with the crime.

YOUNG IMITATOR OF SIDNEY CARTON REVEALS STRANGE ACT

WHEATON, Ill., March 2.—A real-life enactment of Charles Dickens' novel "The Tale of Two Cities" came to light here today when Thomas Novilla, a chivalrous and romantic youth, admitted in his cell in the Wheaton Jail that he had substituted for John Riniilli, his friend, so that Riniilli could embark on his honeymoon.

Riniilli, it develops, was arrested several weeks ago for violating the prohibition law. His trial was set for the date on which he was scheduled to be married. He went to Novilla, his best friend, with a proposition.

"We look enough alike to put this over," said Riniilli, "you go to court and say you are me. Plead guilty and accept the sentence. Stay in jail till I get through with this honeymoon business and then I'll relieve you. I'm sure you don't mind doing an old friend a favor."

Thomas obliged. He posed and was sentenced to 180 days in jail. But that was fifteen days ago and friend John has failed to appear. Irritated by the "double-cross," Thomas confided his secret to Sheriff Lawrence Hattendorf. The latter predicted both men will be given an additional "stretch" for trifling with the courts.

REED ENTERS FIGHT FOR CALIFORNIA'S LIST OF DELEGATES

Will Oppose Smith; Action Surprises His Friends

WASHINGTON, March 2.—Senator James A. Reed's entry into the California primary to "fight it out" with other aspirants for the Democratic presidential nomination was regarded by Democratic leaders in Washington today as an event of outstanding political importance and significance.

It means, they believe, a showdown that will throw a lot of light on the question that buzzes continually in Democratic quarters these days, to wit: "Can Smith be stopped?"

Four years ago, California's twenty-six delegates were for William G. McAdoo. For 103 weary ballots they went down the line for McAdoo without wavering or faltering. McAdoo announced his withdrawal from the 1928 race a year ago, and since that time the Smith people have claimed California's twenty-six delegates in the '28 convention for their own. The New York governor has many friends in the state and they have been laboring industriously in his behalf.

Reed's announcement that his hat is in the California ring, and that a slate of Reed delegates will be presented in every district in the primary of May 1 now alters the situation very materially. Where the Smith people had expected an easy conquest, or no contest at all, it now becomes evident that there is to be a real battle for twenty-six delegates unless the Smith managers evade the issue, and no one here believes they will.

Senator Reed's announcement of his militant candidacy in California, caused considerable surprise among his followers here. When the Missourian left the capital on his speaking tour through the west it was understood by his friends that he was seeking only to build himself up as a possible compromise candidate—when and if the Houston convention found it impossible to nominate Smith.

His going into the primary in the Golden State, however, indicates there has been a change in his pre-convention strategy. By this action, the Missourian has shown that he is not only in quest of Democratic harmony, but he is militant after delegates wherever they can be obtained. Smith's or anyone else's.

The possible outcome in California has Democratic leaders here frankly guessing. Most of them, since McAdoo's withdrawal, have been willing to concede Smith the delegation, although they have been basing that concession largely upon what the Smith people claim, rather than upon their own knowledge of conditions along the Pacific. There are few of them, however, who believe that Reed, with his acknowledged political sagacity, would elect to enter the contest there unless he thought he had a good chance of winning. Hence they were in a quandary today.

Indore Wedding Set

With the consent of his Indian relatives and two wives at last obtained, Sir Tukoji Rao Holkar, below, former Maharajah of Indore, is reported to have set the date for his wedding to Miss Nancy Ann Miller, above, of Seattle, Wash., for March 11. Elaborate preparations for the marriage have been made at Barhwa, near Indore.

AMERICA PREPARES FOR ANNUAL TRAVEL SPREE THIS SUMMER

Nation Will Spend Five
Billions In Seeing
World

WASHINGTON, March 2.—Mr. and Mrs. America and family, world globe trotters, are going on a traveling spree this summer.

Reports to various government departments indicated today that America's traveling bill this year will total the staggering sum of $5,000,000,000. This is a billion dollars more than the approximately annual cost of running the government.

Shipping, railroad, automobile and airplane officials are preparing for the greatest year in history.

It is estimated that approximately 400,000 overseas voyagers will spend $850,000,000. Last year foreigners spent but $15,000,000 traveling in America. The shipping board announced that indications point to practically all its passenger ships being booked full for the summer. Another liner, the recommissioned America, will be put into service this month to handle the expected increased traffic to Europe.

The greatest increase is in the tourist business. The commerce department estimated that the tourists spend an average of $1250 each on a trip abroad.

Additional millions will be expended by Americans travelling by auto and train in Canada and Mexico.

The railroads expect to better the record of last year when they carried a total of 467,854,000 passengers. The tourist revenue may reach half a billion dollars.

Fully a third of the people of the country will take vacation motor tours according to estimates of the American Automobile Association. They will spend an estimated sum of $3,500,000,000 and will burn up approximately 1,000,000,000 gallons of gasoline. This would mean that the roads of the country would be choked with an endless stream of motor vehicles.

Association officials said the United States has a gasoline pump for every mile of improved highway and a gas station to every 1.8 miles for the country.

Aviation, the infant among transportation facilities, expects to discard its swaddling clothes and assume a man's size share in the passenger business. Officials estimated that about 6,000 passengers or treble the number of last year, will be carried on regular air lines. This does not include local sight seeing and stunt flights.

WASHINGTON, March 2.—President Coolidge probably will be asked this week to approve the $325,000,000 compromise flood control bill.

Senator Jones (R) of Washington, author of the compromise bill, and Rep. Reid (R) of Illinois, chairman of the house flood control, plan to visit the president in an effort to iron out differences between the administration and the flood relief blocs of congress. Reid had declared he would accept the Jones bill if certain minor changes were made in it.

The bill meanwhile met with stiff opposition from the Arkansas delegation, which demands that the government take action to protect tributaries. Senator Caraway (D) of Arkansas is leading this opposition.

FORMER PARTY HEAD REVEALS SINCLAIR DONATED $260,000

Fall, Blackmer, O'Neil
And G. O. P. Found
To Have Bonds

WASHINGTON, March 2.—Secret investigators for the senate public lands committee were following trails today that are expected to throw more light upon the ultimate disposition of the Continental Trading Company's $3,080,000 Liberty bond "slush fund."

Some of these bonds, it has been shown, went to Ex-Secretary of the Interior Fall, who leased Teapot Dome to Harry F. Sinclair; others to H. M. Blackmer and James O'Neil, midwestern oil men, and finally others to the Republican national committee, to aid in liquidating its 1920 deficit.

Although Sinclair denied the senate committee when it sought to learn disposition of the Continental bonds, and is now under jail sentence for contempt because of this defiance, the committee has learned from Will H. Hays, former chairman of the Republican national committee, that the oil magnate put up $250,000 for the committee after he leased the naval oil reserve from Fall.

One hundred thousand dollars in bonds were later returned to Sinclair, making his net contribution $150,000. The first $75,000 in bonds which were found to be the self-same Continental bonds, constituted an outright gift. Hays informed the committee. A "loan" of $100,000 was later returned to Sinclair, and the remaining $85,000 was made a gift when Sinclair learned that Hays was repaying it out of his own pocket.

"I had suffered financial losses," Hays said, in explaining this $85,000 gift, "of which Mr. Sinclair knew. He did not feel that I should bear this burden personally, and he voluntarily returned the $85,000 in securities which I had caused to be delivered to him."

Hays did not explain on the witness stand "the financial losses of which Mr. Sinclair knew," and the committee did not question him directly upon this point.

Senator Walsh (D) of Montana, prosecutor of the Teapot Dome investigation, said the committee would not inquire into stories of speculation in the stock of Sinclair's mammoth oil company following its lease of Teapot Dome from Fall.

Hays told the committee of his disposition of the bonds secured from Sinclair. He said $25,000 went to former Secretary of War John W. Weeks, $50,000 to John T. Pratt of New York, and $60,000 to Fred W. Upham, the late treasurer of the Republican national committee. Weeks, Pratt and Upham all have died since the senate oil investigation was launched.

"It seems strange," said Senator "man of the committee," "that nine-Nye (R) of North Dakota, chairman of the men connected with these mysterious transactions, are either dead, too sick to testify, or are in Europe."

WASHINGTON, March 2.—The United Mine workers hope that an adjustment may be speedily reached in the row in the Pittston, Pa., hard coal field, John L. Lewis, declared today in a telegram to Mayor William H. Gillespie of Pittston.

Four union leaders have recently been slain in that district.

Lewis declared that if the local committee and company and district officials fail to end the dispute, it is the function of the joint board of conciliation, not the international union, to find a basis of settlement.

FLAMES DESTROY BUSINESS SECTION

PEEKSKILL, N. Y., March 2.—A $500,000 fire in the heart of the business district here early today destroyed ten stores and one factory before firemen finally brought the blaze under control at 6 a. m.

The fire started shortly before four o'clock this morning. It destroyed the Woolworth department store and offices in the Woolworth building, and razed nine other stores in the same block. A clothing factory also was burned to the ground.

GET FEDERAL TERMS

CLEVELAND, March 2.—John Robertson and Harry Vanderbilt, of Youngstown were in the county jail here today awaiting removal to Atlanta Federal prison to serve two years and nine months for interstate transportation of a stolen automobile from Youngstown to Nashville, Tenn. The two men were sentenced by Federal Judge Paul Jones after they pleaded guilty late yesterday.

VELMA WEST PREPARES TO GO ON TRIAL ON MURDER CHARGE

PAINESVILLE, O., March 2.—The defense expects to call at least thirty witnesses in the Velma West first degree murder trial, which starts here Monday, March 5. It was learned today.

As the state presented fifty-one witnesses before the Lake County Grand Jury which on January 12 indicted Mrs. West for the hammer slaying of her husband, T. Edward West, December 6, 1927, all indications point to a lengthy trial.

New clothes are being brought to the youthful Velma for the trial,

PRISON WALLS BLOT OUT SPOTLIGHT FOR SLAYER-ACTRESS

Dorothy Mackaye Now
Just a Number At San Quentin

SAN QUENTIN, Cal., March 2.—The footlights are darkened and the spotlight's glare is blotted out by the grayness of prison walls. Dorothy Mackaye, actress, against a background of a dull hue, has a new role to enact today; the more realistic part of No. 44,960 in San Quentin state penitentiary.

But she refuses to let her spirits droop. Having failed in an eight-months struggle to avert a prison term from one to three years for concealing circumstances surrounding the first-degree death of her husband, Ray Raymond, musical comedy star, the actress still hopes.

This time it is a pardon that she looks forward to. She will put forth every effort to gain release from prison before her term is completed, she said, and, if she succeeds she will respond to her long yearning for a return to the boards.

"I'm coming back to the stage, when I'm through here," she declared. She insists that she is innocent of the charges upon which she was convicted.

Beneath the same large roof with her is the man who fought with her husband over her affections, Paul Kelly, motion picture actor, serving a term for manslaughter growing out of Raymond's death.

Kelly reserved all comment on Miss Mackaye's commitment yesterday to San Quentin. And the actress herself, though she spoke somewhat freely, mentioned his name only to protest that he too was innocent.

SHERIFF'S WIFE RETURNS TO HOME

BUENOS AIRES, O., March 2.—Mrs. Lura Ulmer, wife of Sheriff Harvey D. Ulmer, who with her two and one-half year old son, Harvey, Jr., has been missing since midnight last Saturday, has returned with the boy.

For almost a week the authorities have been engaged in a widespread search for her and the child. Her husband had participated in the search.

Mrs. Ulmer returned to the home of her sister, Mrs. Avery Atkinson. She explained that when she left home she went to Mansfield and then to Toledo where she had a position in a private home.

"I read in the papers that a search was being made for me and my boy so I came home," she said. Sheriff Ulmer was out of town looking for his wife when she returned home.

HIRAM REED TAKES WITNESS STAND TO DENY DYNAMITING

Accused Bomber To Repudiate Three Confessions

OTTAWA, Ill., March 2.—Hiram Reed, accused school bomber, was to take the witness stand in the LaSalle County Circuit Court here today and tell the jury he had nothing to do with the explosion at the Pleasant Valley school house, which nearly cost the life of his teacher's sweetheart, Iola Bradford.

Reed planned to repeat in the presence of the jury the testimony he gave earlier in the week at the hearing held before Judge Frank Hayes on the question of admissibility of his confessions as evidence.

His three confessions, one signed and two oral, already have been related to the jury by prosecution witnesses, who testified after Judge Hayes over-ruled objections to their testimony.

Reed will testify that he signed the original confession and made subsequent similar statements because he was assured that if he did so, he would be free to marry Miss Bradford, who is to become the mother of his child, and that she would be shielded from publicity.

He intends to declare he still loves Iola, and "would be married to her now" if the county officials had not "poisoned her mind" against him.

With Reed's testimony, the defense plans to rest its case. The state closed last yesterday, but may call one or two rebuttal witnesses.

Indications are that Reed's fate will be placed in the hands of the jury by tomorrow noon.

THIRTEEN CARS ARE DERAILED

TOLEDO, O., March 2.—Thirteen coaches of a fast New York Central passenger train from Chicago, enroute to Cleveland, left the rails at Swanton, twenty miles west of here early today, two of the cars overturning. The train carried 131 passengers but no one was seriously hurt.

Another train was immediately rushed to the scene and passengers were taken to the hospital. A broken rod on the locomotive of the wrecked train is believed to have caused it to leave its tracks, pulling the cars along. There were nine Pullman coaches on the train and many passengers were routed from their berths. Work of clearing the tracks was begun at once.

TWO KILLED, THREE HURT AT CROSSING

TOLEDO, O., March 2.—Two people were dead and three others were in a hospital here today as a result of a grade crossing accident three miles south of Perrysburg last Thursday.

The dead are Cyril Plovie, 39, and his sixteen-year-old daughter, Ida. His wife, Lily, 39, Central high, 37 and Basis Brehm, 50, are in the hospital suffering from slight injuries.

An interurban car of the Toledo Bowling Green line struck the auto in which the people were riding at a crossing on the Dixie Highway near Perrysburg. All are residents of Cleveland, Ohio.

Plovie was killed instantly, and his daughter died this morning in the East Side Hospital here.

FIVE STORES WIPED OUT BY FLAMES

RITTANING, Pa., March 2.—Firemen believed they had checked a blaze here today that raged for eleven hours, breaking out anew intermittently until damage estimated between $250,000 and $500,000 was done.

Five store buildings and offices above were destroyed by the flames as firemen from seven nearby towns attempted to bring the conflagration under control.

CONGRESS BATTLES OVER STALKER BILL AMENDING DRY LAW

Wets Say Measure Would Favor Big Boot-
legger.

WASHINGTON, March 2.—Another "wet" and "dry" fight in congress was breaking today over the Stalker bill, raising the maximum penalty for a first violation of the Volstead act, excepting only possession of liquor, to five years imprisonment or a fine of $10,000.

Backed by the department of justice, dry leaders declared they would but the amendment through in the present session.

At the same time the wets both ridiculed the measure for an alleged "joker" in it and declared that it put a prohibition law violation and a bank robber on the same basis.

Placed on the calendar by favorable action on the house judiciary committee, the bill is scheduled to be called up for a vote in the near future.

Rep. Laguardia (R) of New York, a "wet" member of the committee, asserted that the amendment would be hailed with delight by the bootleggers.

"The bill does raise the maximum sentence but it also removes the present provisions of the law which make a jail sentence mandatory for a second violation of the law," he said.

"The department of justice wants the amendment so that liquor cases won't have to be tried under the conspiracy statutes. They are failing into a trap."

"Under this amendment, the big violator will pay a fine or let a truck driver serve a sentence in jail. The big bootlegger, who sits behind a roll-top desk, can only be reached through trial for conspiracy."

TWO AVIATORS DEAD IN CRASH

SALEM, Ore., March 2.—Dare Sloper, a druggist of Stanton, Ore., who had ambitions to become an aviator, and Everett Boedecker, pilot, are dead here as the result of an airplane crash.

Flying in an old, reconstructed plane, the machine was seen to dip then roll over on its side and crash.

Sloper was taken from the crushed plane dead and Boedecker died later in a local hospital.

ON MYSTERY TRIP

BOSTON, March 2.—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and three flying companions, who took off from East Boston airport on a "mystery flight" today planned to stop "somewhere in New York State" within two hours flying distance of Boston—probably either Curtiss Field, L. I., or Albany, International News Service learned from an official source.

THE WEST TRIAL

James L. Kilgallen, one of the foremost reporters in the country, will cover the trial of Velma West for International News Service and The Gazette. The trial begins next Monday at Painesville, O.

Kilgallen has covered with distinction many big national stories, including such celebrated murder trials as the Hall-Mills case, the Snyder-Gray case and the trial a few months ago of George Remus in Cincinnati. His vivid descriptive story of the execution of Ruth Snyder and Judd Gray recently evoked the highest praise from editors all over the country.

The Velma West trial promises to be of unusual interest in Ohio. It will be covered accurately and entertainingly in International News Service dispatches.

SCIENTIST WEIGHING WORLD IS NEARING GOAL

WASHINGTON, March 2.—Buried in a laboratory-cave thirty-five feet under ground Dr. Paul R. Heyl, physicist at the U. S. Bureau of standards has entered into the third and last year of his study of the weight of old mother earth, and in calculation of a more accurate gravitational constant.

The experiment, launched in 1926, will be completed during the present year, Heyl said today. Five separate calculations of the constant were made in 1927, with an average of 6.664.

From the gravitational constant is calculated the weight of the world, estimated at tons in the

Mrs. James J. Davis, wife of the secretary of labor, has become a culinary advisor to the nation's housewives over the radio. She is scheduled to broadcast from Washington the favorite dishes of great men and women of the world as found in the Congressional cookbook.

SUBWAY, ELEVATED WORKERS PREPARED TO LAUNCH STRIKE

Only Intervention By
Mayor Walker May
Prevent

NEW YORK, March 2.—Subway and elevated workers on the Interborough Rapid Transit Company's lines here are expected to go on strike at midnight tomorrow unless intervention by Mayor James J. Walker today is successful.

Meanwhile, 700 strikebreakers, guarded by police, have been imported by the Interborough and are ready for duty. Motormen are being trained hurriedly.

Reports were current today that Thomas E. Mitten, chairman of the board of the Philadelphia Rapid Transit Company, will manage the Interborough lines if the city captures them during the strike. Mitten has leased an apartment here. If hired by Mayor Walker, he will have virtually dictatorial powers.

Heads of large business concerns have arranged to take their employees to and from work by other means of transportation if a strike is called.

FREE DEATH SUSPECT

CLEVELAND, March 2.—A suspect who had been held by local police in connection with the slaying of Peter Arelli, 31, in Mansfield, O., was free today. The man was released yesterday afternoon when Mansfield detectives failed to identify him in connection with the crime.

YOUNG IMITATOR OF SIDNEY CARTON REVEALS STRANGE ACT

WHEATON, Ill., March 2.—A "We look enough alike to put this over," said Rinilli, "you go to court and say you are me. Plead guilty and accept the sentence. Stay in jail till I get through with this honeymoon business and then I'll relieve you. I'm sure you don't mind doing an old friend a favor."

Thomas oblige. He posed and was sentenced to 180 days in jail. But that was fifteen days ago and friend John has failed to appear. Rinilli, it develops, was arrested several weeks ago for violating the prohibition law. His trial was set for the date on which he was scheduled to be married. He went to Novilla, his best friend, with a proposition.

REED ENTERS FIGHT FOR CALIFORNIA'S LIST OF DELEGATES

Will Oppose Smith; Action Surprises His
Friends

WASHINGTON, March 2.—Senator James A. Reed's entry into the California primary to "fight it out" with other aspirants for the Democratic presidential nomination was regarded by Democratic leaders in Washington today as an event of outstanding political importance and significance.

It means, they believe, a showdown that will throw a lot of light on the question that buzzes continually in Democratic quarters these days, to wit: "Can Smith be stopped?"

Four years ago, California's twenty-six delegates were for William G. McAdoo. For 103 weary ballots they went down the line for McAdoo without wavering or faltering. McAdoo announced his withdrawal from the 1928 race a year ago, and since that time the Smith people have claimed California's twenty-six delegates in the '28 convention for their own. The New York governor has many friends in the state and they have been laboring industriously in his behalf.

Reed's announcement that his hat is in the California ring, and that a slate of Reed delegates will be presented in every district in the primary of May 1 now alters the situation very materially. Where the Smith people had expected an easy conquest, or no contest at all, it now becomes evident that there is to be a real battle for twenty-six delegates unless the Smith managers evade the issue, and no one here believes they will.

Senator Reed's announcement of his militant candidacy in California, caused considerable surprise among his followers here. When the Missourian left the capital on his speaking tour through the west it was understood by his friends that he was seeking only to build himself up as a possible compromise candidate—when and if the Houston convention found it impossible to nominate Smith.

His going into the primary in the Golden State, however, indicates there has been a change in his pre-convention strategy. By this action, the Missourian has shown that he is not only in quest of Democratic harmony, but he is militant after delegates wherever they can be obtained, Smith's or anyone else's.

The possible outcome in California has Democratic leaders here frankly guessing. Most of them, since McAdoo's withdrawal, have been willing to concede Smith the delegation, although they have been basing that concession largely upon what the Smith people claim, rather than upon their own knowledge of conditions along the Pacific. There are few of them, however, who believe that Reed, with his acknowledged political sagacity, would elect to enter the contest there unless he thought he had a good chance of winning. Hence they were in a quandary today.

WILL ASK COOLIDGE TO APPROVE BILL

WASHINGTON, March 2.—President Coolidge probably will be asked this week to approve the $325,000,000 compromise flood control bill.

Senator Jones (R) of Washington, author of the compromise bill, and Rep. Reid (R) of Illinois, chairman of the house flood control, plan to visit the president in an effort to iron out differences between the administration and the flood relief blocs of congress. Reid had declared he would accept the Jones bill if certain minor changes were made in it.

The bill meanwhile met with stiff opposition from the Arkansas delegation, which demands that the government take action to protect tributaries. Senator Caraway (D) of Arkansas is leading this opposition.

With the consent of his Indian relatives and two wives at last obtained, Sir Tukoji Rao Holkar, below, former Maharajah of Indore, is reported to have set the date for his wedding to Miss Nancy Ann Miller, above, of Seattle, Wash., for March 11. Elaborate preparations for the marriage have been made at Barhai, near Indore.

AMERICA PREPARES FOR ANNUAL TRAVEL SPREE THIS SUMMER

Nation Will Spend Five
Billions In Seeing
World

WASHINGTON, March 2.—Mr. and Mrs. America and family, world champion globe trotters, are going on a traveling spree this summer. Reports to various government departments indicated today that America's traveling bill this year will total the staggering sum of $5,000,000,000. This is a billion dollars more than the approximately annual cost of running the government.

Shipping, railroad, automobile and airplane officials are preparing for the greatest year in history. It is estimated that approximately 400,000 overseas voyagers will spend $850,000,000 last year for expenses spent but $115,000,000 traveling in America. The shipping board announced that indications point to practically all its passenger ships being booked full for the summer. Another liner, the reconditioned America, will be put into service this month to handle the expected increased traffic to Europe.

The greatest increase is in the tourist business. The commerce department estimated that the tourists spend an average of $1250 each on a trip abroad.

Additional millions will be expended by Americans traveling by auto and train in Canada and Mexico.

The railroads expect to better the record of last year when they carried a total of 467,854,000 passengers. The tourist revenue may reach half a billion dollars.

Fully a third of the people of the country will take vacation motor tours according to estimates of the American Automobile Association. They will spend an estimated sum of $3,500,000,000 and will burn up approximately 1,000,000,000 gallons of gasoline. This would mean that the roads of the country would be choked with an endless stream of motor vehicles.

Aviation, the infant among transportation facilities, expects to discard its swaddling clothes and assume a man's size share in the passenger business. Officials estimated that about 6,000 passengers or treble the number of last year, will be carried on regular air lines. This does not include local sight seeing and stunt flights.

Senator Jones (R) of Washington, author of the compromise bill, and Rep. Reid (R) of Illinois, chairman of the house flood control, plan to visit the president in an effort to iron out differences between the administration and the flood relief blocs of congress. Reid had declared he would accept the Jones bill if certain minor changes were made in it.

The bill meanwhile met with stiff opposition from the Arkansas delegation, which demands that the government take action to protect tributaries. Senator Caraway (D) of Arkansas is leading this opposition.

FORMER PARTY HEAD REVEALS SINCLAIR DONATED $260,000

Fall, Blackmer, O'Neil
And G. O. P. Found
To Have Bonds

WASHINGTON, March 2.—Secret investigators for the senate public lands committee were following trails today that are expected to throw more light upon the ultimate disposition of the Continental Trading Company's $3,080,000 Liberty bond "slush fund."

Some of these bonds, it has been shown, went to Ex-Secretary of the Interior Fall, who leased Teapot Dome to Harry F. Sinclair; others to H. M. Blackmer and James O'Neil, midwestern oil men, and finally others to the Republican national committee, to aid in liquidating its 1920 deficit.

Although Sinclair denied the senate committee when it sought to learn disposition of the Continental bonds, and is now under jail sentence for contempt because of this defiance, the committee has learned from Will H. Hays, former chairman of the Republican national committee, that the oil magnate put up $260,000 for the committee after he leased the naval oil reserve from Fall.

One hundred thousand dollars in bonds were later returned to Hays, making his net contribution $160,000. The first $75,000 in bonds were found to be the self-same Continental bonds, constituted an outright gift, Hays informed the committee. A "loan" of $100,000 was later returned to Sinclair, and the remaining $50,000 was made a gift when Sinclair learned that Hays was repaying it out of his own pocket.

"I had suffered financial losses," Hays said, in explaining this $85,000 gift, "of which Mr. Sinclair knew. He did not feel that I should bear this burden personally, and he voluntarily returned the $85,000 in securities which I had caused to be delivered to him."

Hays did not explain on the witness stand "the financial losses of which Mr. Sinclair knew," and the committee did not question him directly upon this point.

Senator Walsh (D) of Montana, prosecutor of the Teapot Dome investigation, said the committee would not inquire into stories of speculation in the stock of Sinclair's mammoth oil company following its lease of Teapot Dome from Fall.

Hays told the committee of his disposition of the bonds secured from Sinclair. He said $25,000 went to former Secretary of War John W. Weeks, $50,000 to John T. Pratt of New York, and $60,000 to Fred W. Pham, the late treasurer of the Republican national committee. Weeks, Pratt and Upham all have died since the senate bill investigation was launched.

"It seems strange," said Senator Nye (R) of North Dakota, chairman of the committee, "that ninety per cent of the men connected with these mysterious transactions are either dead, too sick to testify, or are in Europe."

MINE WORKERS HOPE FOR PITTSBURGH PEACE

WASHINGTON, March 2.—The United Mine workers hope that an adjustment may be speedily reached with the coal row in the Pittston, Pa., hard coal field, John L. Lewis, declared today in a telegram to Mayor William H. Gillespie of Pittston.

Four union leaders have recently been slain in that district. Lewis declared that if the local committee and company are able to reach an agreement to end the dispute, it is the function of the joint board of conciliation, not the international union, to find a basis of settlement.

FLAMES DESTROY BUSINESS SECTION

PEEKSKILL, N. Y., March 2.—A $500,000 fire in the heart of the business district here early today destroyed ten stores and one factory before firemen finally brought the blaze under control at 6 a. m. The fire started shortly before four o'clock this morning. It destroyed the Woolworth department store and offices in the Woolworth building, and razed nine other stores in the same block. A clothing factory also was burned to the ground.

GET FEDERAL TERMS

CLEVELAND, March 2.—John Robertson and Harry Vanderbilt, of Youngstown were in the county jail here today awaiting removal to Atlanta Federal prison to serve three years and nine months for interstate transportation of a stolen automobile from Youngstown to Nashville, Tenn. The two men were sentenced by Federal Judge Paul Jones after they pleaded guilty late yesterday.

COAL DEALER WOULD HALT ABANDONMENT OF PENNSY SWITCH

Spring Valley Man Asks Injunction Against Railway

Edward E. Stuck, operator of a coal yard at Spring Valley has filed an injunction suit in Common Pleas Court to restrain the Pennsylvania Railroad Co. from removing and discontinuing service on a railroad switch constructed on the plaintiff's property forty years ago and used to furnish transportation service.

Stuck sets forth that he is owner of several acres of land one-half mile west of the main line of the railroad and that some forty years ago the defendant erected a switch, which for a great number of years has been used to give service to the owners or occupants of the land.

Mainly asserts that he is now operating a coal yard on the property, receiving all his coal over the railroad switch.

The railroad company, it is charged, is engaged in removing the switch and will deprive him of accustomed service by the proposed abandonment of the branch.

The switch is still serviceable and is used by Stuck in his business, according to the petition. Plaintiff claims if it is removed his business will be destroyed.

The railroad company has been paid about $4,500 in freight charges for this service in the last two years by Stuck, the petition recites.

It is also pointed out that the railroad company uses the switch almost every day in its regular transportation business, other than for services to Stuck.

A temporary injunction is sought, which Stuck asks the court eventually make permanent.

G. H. Thomas, Spring Valley, and Marcus Shoup, Xenia, are attorneys for the plaintiff.

FADING OF LITTLE ONE-ROOM COUNTRY SCHOOL CONTINUES

Slowly but surely the one-room, "little red schoolhouse" is coming to be a thing of the past.

"Every county is bound to come to it sooner or later," says County Superintendent H. C. Aultman, in calling attention to the action of Clinton County this week in abolishing the one-room buildings in that county. Annexation of the one-room rural schools in Union Twp., to the Wilmington City Schools was endorsed by the township education board at its recent meeting.

A resolution was adopted unanimously by the board members to effect the joining of the rural district to the city with the provision that the rural district be given representation on the city board. Signatures of 50 per cent of the voters in the township were obtained to void putting the matter to a vote.

Advantages of the annexation as outlined by Supt. H. W. Hodson of Clinton County and to which Supt. Aultman agrees are: in the city schools the pupils receive more of the teachers' time than is received in the one-room schools; in the city schools the average length of recitation periods is from thirty to forty minutes, while a recitation in the rural schools is not much longer than ten minutes.

There will be a slight increase in school taxes for the rural residents, but this increase is small compared with the benefits derived. It is pointed out it will mean a decrease in school taxes for the city, but no decrease in school advantages.

The amount saved in teachers' salaries and maintenance of less buildings will more than pay for transportation of pupils to the city schools.

Greene County has forty-four one-room schools. Clark and other counties over the state have none and Portage has only one, Supt. Aultman declares.

LABAN H. ATKINSON DIES ON THURSDAY

Laban H. Atkinson, 76, prominent retired farmer, died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Fred Devoe, Maple Corner Road, Thursday night at 11:20 o'clock. Death followed an illness of three months. Mr. Atkinson was born in Adams

County, Ind., and would have been seventy-seven years old next May 8. He lived in Greene County since boyhood and resided in Spring Valley Twp., a number of years. He moved to Xenia several years ago and his wife, Mrs. Elizabeth Kyne Atkinson, died in this city eleven years ago.

Surviving are three sons and two daughters, William and Charles of Greene County and John of Dayton; two daughters, Mrs. William Ellison, Jacksonville, Fla., and Mrs. Devoe, south of Xenia. One brother, Luther Atkinson, of Kentucky, also survives.

Funeral services will be held at the First M. E. Church, Xenia, Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock with burial in Woodland Cemetery.

VARNISH EXPERTS HEARD AT MEETING

Vernon H. Smith, varnish expert of the McDougall-Butler Co., Buffalo, N. Y., and H. B. Miller, Chicago, sales supervisor of the Mc-

Dougall-Butler Co., were speakers when thirty painters and paint dealers met at the Fred F. Graham Store, S. Whiteman St., Thursday evening.

The meeting was called by the McDougall-Butler Co., and several painters from Xenia and out of the city attended. Mr. Smith has been with the Buffalo concern fifteen years, being brought to America by that company from London where his family had been varnish makers for generations.

Mr. Miller illustrated his talk with color making. Both talks were well received and were followed by serving refreshments.

LORECO 88

THE IDEAL WINTER-TIME GAS At no Increase in Price!

A HURRY CALL! A train to be caught. Only a few minutes to "make it." It's a time when seconds count. A slow firing gasoline in a cold motor would mean failure.

Motorists who use Loreco 88, the ideal winter-time gas, have learned to rely on its quick starting qualities regardless of the weather or temperature of the day. They ask no extra time for "warming up" the motor. For Loreco 88 fires instantly at the first turn of the motor and it furnishes abundant power and mileage in the same motor after it is under way.

You pay no increase in price for Loreco 88.

WHAT DO YOU BUY?

When a man buys farm implements he is buying SERVICE, first, last and all the time. The amount of service he gets is his only return for the money invested. The more years of continuous service he gets from the implement the larger the return on his investment. Short sighted farmers sometimes argue that cheap first cost is a saving. But let some part on a cheaper mail order machine break in the midst of a busy season and one day of waiting to get parts from some distant point will mean many dollars in loss on the season's crop.

Placing a small difference in first cost against a service like this is being penny wise and pound foolish. A resolution was adopted unanimously by the board members to effect the joining of the rural district to the city with the provision that the rural district be given representation on the city board. Signatures of 50 per cent of the voters in the township were obtained to void putting the matter to a vote.

Advantages of the annexation as outlined by Supt. H. W. Hodson of Clinton County and to which Supt. Aultman agrees are, in the city schools the pupils receive more of the teachers' time than is received in the one-room schools; in the city schools the average length of recitation periods is from thirty to forty minutes, while a recitation in the rural schools is not much longer than ten minutes.

There will be a slight increase in school taxes for the rural residents, but this increase is small compared with the benefits derived it is pointed out. It will mean a decrease in school taxes for the city, but no decrease in school advantages. The amount saved in teachers' salaries and maintenance of less buildings will more than pay for transportation of pupils to the city schools.

Greene County has forty-four one room schools. Clark and other counties over the state have none and Portage has only one, Supt. Aultman declares.

LABAN H. ATKINSON DIES ON THURSDAY

Laban H. Atkinson, 76, prominent retired farmer, died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Fred Deane, Maple Corner Road, Thursday night at 11:20 o'clock. Death followed an illness of three months.

Mr. Atkinson was born in Adams

County, Ind., and would have been seventy-seven years old next May 8. He lived in Greene County since boyhood and resided in Spring Valley Twp., a number of years. He moved to Xenia several years ago and his wife, Mrs. Elizabeth Kyne Atkinson, died in this city eleven years ago.

Surviving are three sons and two daughters, William and Charles of Greene County and John of Dayton; two daughters, Mrs. William Ellison, Jacksonville, Fla., and Mrs. Deane, south of Xenia. One brother, Luther Atkinson, of Kentucky, also survives.

Funeral services will be held at the First M. E. Church, Xenia, Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock with burial in Woodland Cemetery.

AIR FIELD OFFICER CLAIMED BY DEATH

Lieut. Ivan Moorman, 33, in the detached service section of Wright Field, Fairfield, died at Miami Valley Hospital, Dayton, Thursday afternoon at 2:15 o'clock, following a week's illness.

VARNISH EXPERTS HEARD AT MEETING

Vernon H. Smith, varnish expert of the McDougall-Butler Co., Buffalo, N. Y., and H. B. Miller, Chicago, sales supervisor of the Mc-

Dougall-Butler Co., were speakers, when thirty painters and paint dealers met at the Fred F. Graham Store, 8. Whiteman St., Thursday evening.

The meeting was called by the McDougall-Butler Co., and several painters from Xenia and out of the city attended. Mr. Smith has been with the Buffalo concern fifteen years, being brought to America by that company from London where his family had been varnish makers for generations.

Mr. Miller illustrated his talk with color making. Both talks were well received and were followed by serving refreshments.

Children of Pre-school Age Need Vitamins

The child of pre-school age needs special nourishment to build a strong body in preparation for the strenuous days of instruction that are ahead.

Many mothers have been gratified at seeing their frail, under-nourished children become vigorous and strong through the consistent, regular use of emulsified cod-liver oil.

The millions of easily-digested, vitamin-rich, mist-like globules of emulsified cod-liver oil that are in every bottle of Scott's Emulsion, are the source of its great power to nourish the body and build health.

If you would assure your child the utmost vitamin-benefit from cod-liver oil — give it in its emulsified form, as in

WHAT DO YOU BUY?

When a man buys farm implements he is buying SERVICE, first, last and all the time. The amount of service he gets is his only return for the money invested. The more years of continuous service he gets from the implement the larger the return on his investment. Short sighted farmers sometimes argue that cheap first cost is a saving. But let some part on a cheaper mail order machine break in he midst of a busy season and one day of waiting to get parts from some distant point will mean many dollars in loss on the season's crop.

McCORMICK-DEERING FARM IMPLEMENTS MADE BY THE INTERNATIONAL HARVESTER COMPANY

not only have a guarantee of service that has been tested by more years than any other in the world, but they maintain at the Greene County Hardware Co., store in this city a complete replacement service that enables any farmer in Greene County to get replacement for any part, no matter how large or how small, in an hour's time. Placing a small difference in first cost against a service like this is being penny wise and pound foolish. When the modern business-like farmer buys he makes an investment in service along with the machine.

The Greene County Hardware Co. SALES AND SERVICE

With traffic becoming more of a problem every day, safety is a vital factor. Traffic is heavier, streets are smoother and safety is essential if we are to decrease the daily casualty list. The General tread grips the road with a double grip and broader traction—furnishing double protection against skidding. General's tread design is the result of engineering research and gives the maximum traction properly combined with long-wearing qualities. That is why Generals give you the greatest protection.

When Seconds Count

A worthy companion to Loreco 88 is quick-acting, easy flowing Loreco Motor Oil. It pours freely at zero. Yet it retains body at high temperatures.

THE IDEAL WINTER TIME GAS At no Increase in Price!

A HURRY CALL! A train to be caught. Only a few minutes to "make it." It's a time when seconds count. A slow firing gasoline in a cold motor would mean failure.

"Look for LORECO"

Motorists who use Loreco 88, the ideal winter-time gas, have learned to rely on its quick starting qualities regardless of the weather or temperature of the day. They ask no extra time for "warming up" the motor. For Loreco 88 fires instantly at the first turn of the motor and it furnishes abundant power and mileage in the same motor after it is under way.

You pay no increase in price for Loreco 88.

COLOR SCENES FROM SHAKESPEAREAN PLAY GIVEN.

Attired in costumes that emphasized the beauty of the subject, scenes from Shakespeare's "Cymbeline," were delightfully presented by members of the Woman's Club, at the home of Mrs. Mary Kinney, E. Second St., Thursday afternoon.

The dramatic work was under the direction of Miss Clara Allen and the perfection of the scenes' presentation was due in a large measure to her efforts. Miss Allen also gave the paper of the afternoon on "Cymbeline, Shakespeare's Treatment of a Welsh Legend."

Those taking part in the program were: "Cymbeline," Mrs. A. M. Patterson; "The Queen," Miss Margaret Moorehead; "Imogene, the heroine," Miss Mary Little; "Posthumus, the hero," Miss Jean B. Elwell; "Pisano," Miss Marjorie Flynn; "Cloten," Miss Allen; "Lucius," Mrs. Lawrence Shields; "Belarius," Miss Allen.

During one of the scenes, Mrs. Emma Jean Cherry sang "Shakespeare's Ballads," which added to the charm of the performance.

After the play, a social period was spent. Guests at the affair were Mrs. Charles Kelsa, and Mrs. W. E. Edin, Dayton; Mrs. Louise H. Sandoy, Miss Maud Ebright, Mrs. W. H. Houston and Mrs. J. P. Lytle.

ELKS AND FAMILIES TO ATTEND PARTY HERE

Elks and their families will attend a party at the Elks' Lodge, Monday night, Dinner will be served at 6 o'clock, followed by a program of music, cards, dancing and a general social time.

After the program, election of officers for the lodge will be held. An invitation is cordially extended to all Elks and their families to attend the meeting.

Mrs. Sarah Klein, Akron, O., is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Owen Tiffany, W. Third St.

Xenia Woman's Music Club meeting will be held at the First Reformed Church, Monday afternoon, March 4, at 2:30. The program will be in charge of Mrs. Meda Gowdy. Members may bring four or five guests.

Mrs. Frank Johnson, near Xenia, who has been severely ill with blood poisoning in her right hand, remains in the same condition.

Mr. Walter Finney, Cedarville, underwent a nasal operation in this city Friday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. McCall, Van Eaton Road, have received announcement of the birth of a son to Mr. and Mrs. Herbert M. Payne, Columbus, Thursday night, at White Cross Hospital, that city. Mrs. Payne was before marriage Miss Helen McCall.

Mr. M. R. Jones, secretary, Dayton Credit Bureau and Mr. Harry Cappel, president and secretary, Cappel Furniture Store, Dayton, and director of the Dayton Credit Bureau, will be speakers at the banquet to be held by the Xenia Credit Bureau at the Elks' Club, Thursday, March 8. Dinner will be served at 6:30.

The Orient Hill P.T. A., will meet Monday afternoon at 3:15 o'clock.

THEN ALL-BRAN SAVED HIM FROM CONSTIPATION

A message for people who use laxatives

Mr. Skiles wrote us a voluntary testimonial after Kellogg's ALL-BRAN had saved him from dreadful constipation. Read his tribute:

"For years I have been so constipated. After trying every kind of drug possible, I could only get temporary relief. I became discouraged and gave up hopes, when a friend told me to use Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. I had read so many testimonials I had no faith. I was of the opinion testimonials were put out by friends. I will not only give you the privilege to use my name, but I will go on the witness stand and testify to my statement. I cannot express words great enough to meet with Kellogg's food."

—ARTHUR SKILES, 325 N. Kedzie Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

If constipation is preying upon your health, check it before too late. If you are using habit-forming laxatives, stop it before this harmful practice fastens its grip too tight.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to relieve constipation. Just eat two tablespoonfuls daily—chronic cases, with every meal. Doctors recommend ALL-BRAN. A 100% bran cereal—deduced with milk or cream—fruits or honey added. Use in cooking too. Sold by all grocers. Served everywhere. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

imposed fines of $800 and costs each upon Michael J. Dugan and James Blair, this city, on charges of violating the prohibition laws, Friday morning.

Dugan, proprietor of a pool and billiard parlor and soft drink establishment, N. Whitteman St., was recently convicted of possessing liquor, while Blair was found guilty of unlawful delivery of liquor.

Enforcement of the sentences was held up temporarily to permit the pair time to decide whether to appeal the convictions.

VOL. II FRIDAY, MARCH 2, 1928 NO. 17

Now's when we all begin to jockey with Uncle Sam on our Income Tax.

Well, well, more snow on the first of March than all winter. It's all right though, we have plenty of feeds.

"Here hold my horse a minute, will you?" "Sir, I'm a member of congress."

"Never mind—you look honest, I'll take a chance."

How about those fresh cows? Better put 'em on one of the five Ubiko Dairy Feeds. If they "slip" they never come back and there are no better than Ubiko anywhere.

"Don't expose your ignorance." "Why not? What better way to get rid of it?"

Ubiko Slogan—"Quality in feed is Economy in Feeding." Think it over! There's more there than the first glance betrays.

If you want harmony in the orchestra of matrimony—play second fiddle.

Pig and Hog ration a 25% feed with a wonderful price and a marvelous performance. Ask us for references. It may be your neighbor.

Cook With Gas

—beyond the Gas Service limits

KITCHENKOOK brings to rural and suburban homes and city homes outside the gas limits, every convenience of city gas. In fact, it is a gas stove, with its own gas plant built right into it. Makes and burns its own gas from common gasoline, producing the fastest known cooking fire. KITCHENKOOK is different from any stove you have ever used. It has all the fine features of gas with none of the objectionable features of common liquid fuel stoves; no wicks or chimneys; no smoke, soot or kerosene odor. Takes less than a minute to light; when all burners are ready at once. Turn them on or off as wanted, just like gas. KITCHENKOOK is the biggest improvement in fine cook stoves in the past quarter century. It's the sensation of the industry. Don't fail to ask for a demonstration of this wonder cook stove. Made in 16 attractive models.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

A STRIKING CONTRAST—The Lord lifteth up the meek: he casteth the wicked down to the ground.—Psalm 147:6.

ANOTHER GREAT AMERICAN

When the history of the United States is written for the second and third decades of the new century a United States diplomat will stand out among the few really great men of his time. Myron T. Herrick, ambassador to France, has served the United States government almost 20 years as something more than ambassador, he was a great world citizen who has typified his country and incarnated its spirit—the spirit of helpfulness with the vision of peace. During the first days of the great war he was a tower of strength to the citizens of our country who found themselves stranded in Europe. He was during his whole residence there in the war a world figure of the first magnitude. Returning in 1921, he has since represented America at many conferences, some of them vastly important conferences, and in the negotiation of the great treaty of a lasting peace virtually outlawing war between the two countries. Ambassador Herrick has personified all that was noble and forceful, far-seeing and practical, in the American character.

Last month the French people through their officials gave a great fête in honor of our ambassador; something that rarely has been done in modern history for an American ambassador. The press of Europe took the occasion of this fête to pay the tribute of Europe to our great international American. The country that produces for a crisis men like Herrick is an important factor in the new civilization that is dawning upon a new world.

SHIPS AND AIRSHIPS

We are soon to have trans-Atlantic mail service. Official announcement of mail contracts about to be let by the United States government to a British concern has been made. The British company will carry the mail aboard a great airship, and the charges for carrying will be high enough to make it possible for the enterprise to pay expenses. An airship costs a lot of money, and the overhead on airship mail service will be high.

As Americans, we receive this news with mixed feelings. We are proud that our British friends have advanced so far with aerial pioneering that they are able to offer this service, and we think our government does well to offer friendly co-operation. But we feel a distinct sting of disappointment because Americans did not get the trans-Atlantic mail going first.

Three or four years ago much was said about dirigibles that were to come out of Akron, O., bigger and better than any others in the world. German workmen and engineers, who were said to know more about airships than any other people, were headed toward Akron to carry on the work, under American encouragement and American proprietorship. We hope those airships will yet come out of Akron in great flocks, and we hope that the American government will be even more liberal in co-operating with such enterprise than it is in assisting British capital to float the first trans-Atlantic flying mail.

ESCAPE

The newest war airplanes carry special oxygen tanks to enable flyers to trail the skies six miles above the earth. That's about three miles higher than the present "ceiling" observed by airmen. Here, at last, is complete escape from saxophones, jazz bores, and everything but taxes. And as for the fatalities of war, a six-mile drop is no worse than a three-mile drop.

FRANCE SAYS WOOD

It's the national habit to feel a little on the outs with France. The French are outspoken about some of our tourists and they differ with us on the time, the place, and the national debt. But give France her due. Give her credit for the most tremendous after-war job done by any nation.

At the time of the armistice there were 7,250,000 acres of land made unsuitable for use by war. More than 95 per cent of that land has been restored to profitable condition. At the time of the armistice there were nearly 900,000 buildings destroyed. Five or six hundred thousand of them have been restored.

Twenty-two thousand and nine hundred factories were destroyed. More than twenty-one thousand have been restored.

The French are thrifty and France says wood.

BEATING A BAD NAME

It takes a long time to beat a bad reputation, but it can be done. Everybody used to know Pittsburgh as the smokiest, dirtiest city. Come experts now and Pittsburgh's name is cleared. St. Louis has 17,600 dust particles per cubic foot. That's the largest dust count in the country and St. Louis is the dirtiest city. Cincinnati is next with 16,700 dust particles to the cubic foot. Pittsburgh is respectably third.

BIG AND RICH

No rich man is ever a big man until he learns to give. He simply can't be, for unless he has the desire to give in a large way he does not have within him the qualities of greatness.

In Detroit not long ago a simple communication to the city council asking that sewage facilities be extended into a certain neighborhood, revealed the fact that Fred Fisher, vice-president of the General Motors corporation, had given a million dollars toward the erection of a new building for the Little Sister of the Poor, a Catholic organization for charity.

Not long ago Mr. and Mrs. Fisher gave $750,000 for a nurses' home in connection with a hospital.

Learning to feel one's responsibility in proportion to one's income is learning one of the fundamental lessons of civilization. Without the spirit of giving in a generous way there can be no civilization worthy of the name.

BURTON RASCOE

NEW YORK, Mar. 2. — The day has arrived on which the particular hotel guests may offer his dog a menu. There is one fussy establishment which serves a regular meal table for dogs — for discriminating hounds every day. The meal costs, I believe, 50 cents, and is served formally by a waiter. And if you have a particularly fussy mutt, you may order special dishes from the dog chef. It is also considered proper to train your pet to wag his head from side to side at the conclusion of the meal as the waiter stretches out a spotless napkin in front of the hound's nose. If in doubt, consult Emily Post on "Dining, Canine."

I would include in the list of Manhattan fantasies, the man whose wife is just a bit bumpy. Every so often, according to Walter Winchell, he takes her out of the private sanitarium in which she is confined and takes her on a spree. The pair came into Tex Guinan's saloon, the other night and someone whispered the inside dirt to Tex. Immediately the amiable Guinan teetered over to welcome her eccentric guests.

"You know," said the lady cuckoo, "I know I'm crazy and I'm kept in a sanitarium. But how do you get away with it?"

Miss Guinan was squelched for the first time.

To those dreamy souls, who have oftentimes imagined a world suddenly depopulated with the exception of themselves, I suggest a walk in the district below Brooklyn bridge on a Sunday. It is possible to walk block after block without seeing a single human. One's footsteps seem to echo against the myriad little dirty buildings. But only once in a great while will one find any door open—and that will be an office building entrance.

As for stores, business on Sunday in the financial section approaches the absolute zero and misses it by a hair. The area is quite lifeless.

In this respect New York is unique. Most cities have a business center in which hotels and theatres are also found. But I doubt if there are more than three theatres including 10-cent movie houses, below Brooklyn bridge. Nor are there any hotels, except flop houses on the East side. One restaurant out of 10 is likely to be open. The district which draws more than a million on weekdays does not possibly attract more than ten thousand on Sunday. And ten thousand people enter and leave Romy's cathedral within three hours, any day.

Be warned of the alert panhandler who pushes his face into the door as you are coming out of a building. When you apologize, he will ask you for a "dime to get a cuppa' coffee."

Talk is heard about a female impersonator who lost her job. "HER job?" some of her rivals in falsetto dialogue discovered the fact that she was really a woman, and immediately raised a hue and cry until she was put off the stage. Out of the theater the woman passed as a man. And for years preceding the discovery of the hoax, she shared dressing rooms with men without even being found out. Such, as we columnists are wont to observe, is New York.

WEATHER AND YOUR BUYING HABITS

Rain is the worst of all weather enemies to business. A sudden change to warm or colder weather, however, is usually advantageous. Many big stores have advertisements in newspaper offices awaiting the coming of a sudden shift in temperature.

Women shoppers are extremely superficial in a way; they do not consider what the weather will be tomorrow nearly so much as what it is today. Every smart merchant knows that he can sell winter goods in the spring so long as it is cold and snow is on the ground. The fact that the calendar shows it to be spring rather than winter does not matter at all; the weather is the main thing.

Let us assume that there is a belated spring. Today is cold and bleak and snow is falling. Yet even if all the women are convinced that tomorrow the thermometer will go up to 70 degrees, and that there will not be another cold day for at least six months, they will still buy heavy coats, suits and furs. Reversing the conditions, if in the fall of the year it is warm and sultry, but the women believe that tomorrow it will be freezing and stay that way all winter, they will not buy winter things until the weather changes.

The deplorable feature of this, the merchants look at it, is that the sale deferred too long is deferred forever. If it is a warm fall or a cold spring and stays that way for three or four weeks longer than usual, many decide that the season will soon be over, anyway, and that they may as well make their old clothes do.

A summer that is cool until late in June is a great money loser. Women will not buy while it is cold, and when it does get warm they do not buy because they feel that the summer will not last much longer.

FINDING THE RIGHT MATE

When one is young the most important question is finding the right mate. It's a period of delightful uncertainty. Romance ever lurks just around the corner. But it is a time of dubious happiness and great unrest just the same. So many young people write me and ask my advice. They are worried about their own lack of attractiveness, sometimes generally, and often to certain other young folks whom they wish to win.

Following are three letters, the writers of which virtually have the same problem:

"Dear Mrs. Lee: I am a girl 23 years old, and I also prefer the old-fashioned lass, but I am not old-fashioned. I hate fellows who pet or don't treat girls with respect. I had a nice, respectable fellow. I went with him for five months, then he got smart. That happened quite a few times. I don't care for anybody anymore. I have too much pride. I guess maybe there are some worthwhile fellows in the world. What would you advise me to do?"

"DOUBTFUL."

"Dear Mrs. Lee: I am an interested reader of your column, and I would appreciate your advice very much. At a party, recently, I met a boy whom I fell in love with, and he seemed to like me very much. He said he loved me and asked me to write him, but I felt it wasn't my place to write first, so he said that he would write me and make a date, as he wanted to come to see me. I have been anxiously waiting to hear from him, but he hasn't written yet. What shall I do to win him? Do you think I should have written first?"

"BUBBLES."

I'm very much afraid your letter reached me too late, Brown Eyes, but here it is, with the answer:

"My dear Mrs. Lee: I went with a boy for about six months, only on Sunday night. All at once he quit coming out. I asked him why, and he said, 'I don't know.' He works at the same place I do, so I see him every day. He is friendly but does not ask me to give me some advice. I am invited to a party. It is a Leap Year affair and I am supposed to bring a boy friend. I would like very much to ask this boy, but I don't know whether I should. If I don't ask him to go to the party and some other time he would ask me for a date, should I go with him or refuse him?"

"Brown Eyes."

I wouldn't ask him to go if I were you, Brown Eyes, but if at some future time he should ask you, why do just as you please. If it would be agreeable, accept his invitation.

Care of the Feet in Diabetes (No. 2)

A daily warm bath, with a cold shower or rubdown following, is one of the very important habits that make for good health. There are some to whom this daily cleansing is even more important than to others, and these are the diabetics.

As I told you yesterday, Dr. Joslin, a nationally known diabetic specialist, in a recent address to the N. Y. Academy of Medicine, stated that he had many less cases of sore feet coming to his clinic since he had admonished his hearers in a radio talk to wash their feet before they said their prayers. The doctor evidently takes it for granted that everyone has some sort of a daily prayer.

As gangrene is a great menace to the diabetic, he must be particularly careful to keep his feet in good condition, for real gangrene once contracted is curable only by amputation. At the Mayo Clinic they distribute to all their diabetic patients the following special instructions:

Mayo Instructions for the Care of the Feet in Diabetes

Patients with diabetes who are forty-five years or more, often contract gangrene. The best method of treating gangrene is to prevent its occurrence.

Patients are strongly urged to carry out the following measures: Wash the feet daily with soap and water.

Dry thoroughly. Massage with lanolin (rubbing from the toes to the knee).

Raise yourself on your toes 20 times.

Lie on a bed and raise the legs to a vertical position for from three to five minutes; let them rest in bed for from three to five minutes; then let the legs hang over the side of the bed three to five minutes. Repeat these exercises twice daily. These measures will improve the circulation of the blood.

Nails become brittle and dry, soften them by soaking the feet in warm water for 20 minutes before attempting to cut them.

Cut the nails straight across to avoid injury of the flesh. (Don't leave sharp corners.—L. H. P.) If they are cut by the chiropodist, tell him you have diabetes and caution him not to cut the skin.

Wear shoes that are large, broad and flexible and which do not bind or rub the feet. Wear new shoes one-half hour only for the first week. (I think this means one-half hour daily.—L. H. P.)

If the feet become soft and tender, rub them once a day with alcohol.

White woolen hose free from darts are recommended.

Beware of torn linings and nails in shoes.

In treating corns or callouses, soak the feet in warm, soapy water, and rub off dead skin gently with gauze. Paint the corns with a mixture of salicylic acid one dram and collodion one ounce.

This can be applied at night for four nights. After soaking the feet, the corns will usually come off easily.

Wear pads over the corns if necessary to distribute the pressure of the shoe.

Do not attempt to remove corns with a knife.

In treating bruises and small cuts, always remember that extensive gangrene has its beginning as a small corn, a blister or a small cut. Therefore, lose no time when any bruises or cuts occur.

Apply strong solutions of iodine and other antiseptics. Keep the affected part clean with 50 per cent alcohol. This can be done by bandaging the Pineapple is frequently served as an accompaniment to meat dishes. It is said to aid the digestion of meat. It is recommended especially to be served with ham, old-fashioned ham and eggs, pineapple. In the following menu it is used with sausage to form a dish that will be new and attractive to most of you.

TODAY'S RECIPES

Baked Sausages, Rice and Pineapple — Place a layer of boiled rice in the bottom of a shallow baking dish. Arrange sausage meat in fingers on the bed of rice so they radiate from the center like spokes of a wheel. Put a spoonful of crushed pineapple in the center of the dish and between the sausages. Bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees, for one-half hour, then place under the broiler flame for a few minutes to brown the sausages. The pineapple will brown slightly, too, making a pretty and appetizing dish. Hominy is excellent instead of rice, if you prefer it.

ICE BOX SPICE TEA CAKE
(Mrs. Mary Morton's Daily Tested Recipe)

One cup brown sugar, one-half cup corn syrup, one-half cup molasses, three-fourths cup lard, one-fourth cup butter, three cups flour, three eggs, three-fourths cup cold water, one tablespoon cinnamon, one teaspoon nutmeg, one teaspoon ginger, one tablespoon soda, Cream butter and lard, add sugar and mix well together; add syrup and molasses. Add egg, one at a time and beat well after each addition, then add cold water, soda dissolved in a little hot water, and flour sifted with spices. This batter will keep in ice box and be ready whenever fresh tea cakes are desired to be baked.

Behind the Scenes in Washington

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, Mar. 2. — Senator Thomas J. Walsh of Montana is a great oil investigator. His one handicap is that he has his inhibitions.

He's a lawyer. If he can't prove a thing according to Blackstone, he shirks from proving it. Technicalities mean a lot to him. He can match technicality against technicality with almost anybody, but let a witness once out-match him and he's baffled.

Thus it's possible for a guilty wretch to wiggle through Senator Walsh's fingers even though the senator may know he can convince everybody of the scoundrel's guilt—but to do it fair he'd have to take advantage of technically unfair advantage of him—and that's "non possumus," as a lawyer.

Better let ANYBODY go than lynch him, is the way he feels about it—the legal viewpoint.

WALSH struggled thus through four years of oil investigating—accomplishing wonders, but always restrained from going the limit, by his own inhibitions.

Now—within the last few weeks—observe, butting suddenly into the oil inquiry, Senator Gerald P. Nye of North Dakota.

Nye wasn't a senator when it started. Even after he was appointed—and then elected—the investigation was still in the hands of a sub-committee—with Walsh as chairman—of the senate public lands committee. Nye didn't have a look-in on it.

With the beginning of this session of congress, however, the full public lands committee took the "probe" in hand, and Nye is its chairman.

So now we understand how it happens that Gerald became so prominent over night, as an oil co-investigator with Tom Walsh.

They make a rare combination. And jealously? Not a bit of it. On the one hand, Tom was quick to see how ideally Gerald supplemented him. On the other hand, Gerald's been scrupulous not to steal any of Tom's thunder. They simply have thundered in chorus, naturally making twice as much noise as Tom was able to make thundering solo.

It isn't all noise, either. It's improved the investigation wonderfully. Witnesses like Will Hays and John D. Rockefeller, jr., are calculated to improve any investigation.

Nye's as good an investigator, in his way, as Walsh, but his way's entirely different.

Gerald isn't a lawyer. He's a newspaperman. It's just as much his business to investigate as it is a lawyer's, but he hasn't any inhibitions. His game's to find out what's what, and he doesn't care a hoot how he finds it.

Rules of evidence mean nix to Nye. He asks all he wants to know, and if he isn't answered, at least it's mighty embarrassing, and leads to contempt proceedings.

While it's true that Gerald's new-found assistance is invaluable to Walsh, it's also true that the former's activities wouldn't have anything like the value that they do have, if the latter weren't right on hand to make the most of them. Nye, so to speak, does the pick-and-shovel work, that Tom hasn't the muscle for, and Tom assays the specimens that his helper brings to the surface.

The lawyer-members of the senate are perfectly scandalized at Gerald's methods, and Walsh's own inhibitions hurt him considerably, but after all, he can't prevent what Nye does, and if he will persist in doing it—why, Tom may as well get as much out of it as possible.

How to Achieve Beauty

By MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

THE PLASTIC AGE

After the fundamentals of skin-care have been firmly implanted in the young girl's mind, the wise mother will plan to carry the improvement campaign further. Her next point of considerable will be hair. Beautiful hair must first be healthy hair, and healthy hair depends upon cleanliness.

In selecting your daughter's hair brush, consider length and texture of her hair. There are all sizes and kind of brushes, and all of them are good, but certain bristle lengths are best for long hair, and others, most practical for the scalp health, but some heads are so sensitive that only a comparatively soft brush is necessary—and comfortable. You may, however, accept this as a standard rule: the nightly brushing must never be omitted if you aim for soft, lustrous hair.

If the hair denotes excessive oiliness, select both a tonic and shampoo especially designed to relieve that condition. If the scalp is very dry, a tonic and shampoo made for dry hair will contain the necessary lubrication to restore the hair to healthy normal beauty.

Once a month the careful mother will insure perfect hair health by a hot oil shampoo, balsam oil, being to my mind most effective. This encourages sturdy, luxuriant growth.

If you begin when the first soft down appears on the baby's head to gently brush the opposite way, you will open find that you can coax the baby's hair to curl around your finger. After this very little care will result in soft, "natural" curls, if it has any tendency at all toward curling.

When the original growth becomes strong enough to merit actual care, and this will be not later than the end of the first year, shampoo baby's hair once a week, as carefully and as thoroughly as you do your own. Don't let it grow long and awkward, uneven lengths before the barber is consulted. Personally, I do not approve of ever using a drying machine on a child's hair. It should be rubbed dry, and exposed to the direct sunlight, so that the vitalizing rays can stimulate the scalp's health.

CATBIRD GIVES A CONCERT

"Good morning, sir!" Peter did not wish to frighten the bird so he made up his mind to be careful what he said. "That was a lovely concert that you birds were giving last night. By the way, where are the other birds that were here before I came?"

Catbird laughed. "That's the question," cried he, "and here is the answer."

"At least that is what almost every one calls me, but I am known to a few as the Mocking-bird of the North."

"Are you? Why?" demanded the boy curiously. "By the way, where are the other birds that were here before I came?"

Catbird laughed. "That's the question," cried he, "and here is the answer."

"What could happen? Why a lot of things! Suppose, for instance, a cat appeared and he'd keep the scene! Would you birds keep singing just the same? By the way, speaking of cats, have you happened to see one about? I thought that I heard one squalling just a few moments ago."

Peter looked up at the stranger in gray, and this time there was no mistaking it. The chap was amusing. His air was decidedly mocking. Yet at the same time he looked so merry and mischievous that the boy could not feel offended. There was something queer going on! The stranger knew what it was. Peter was determined to find out.

"What is it? Where are the birds? And did you see the cat? And who are you, anyhow?"

Three questions at once were a good many for any bird to answer, and the gray stranger made no reply. Just looked at mocking as ever.

Then "Me-ow! Me-ow! Me-ow!" For the third time the cat squallied. For this time the sound came from directly above the boy's head. Peter stared. No cat—not a sign of one—but there in the very spot from whence the noise had come sat the gray stranger. Peter became suspicious.

"I do believe you were making that noise," cried he. "Come, now, don't make fun of me any longer, but tell me the truth. Weren't you?"

The merry fellow bowed his head in assent.

"Of course I was," retorted he. "The only wonder to me is that you didn't discover it before. Evidently you do not know who I am."

"I can guess now," cried the boy. "You are Catbird."

"Right!" declared the stranger.

Next—A Mocking Rival.

"MEOW! MEOW!" NOT A CAT IN SIGHT—BUT THERE ABOVE HIM SAT THE MOCKING STRANGER.

his head, and Peter found himself listening to the most wonderful music that he had ever heard.

Mellow and full, the feathered Victrola gave record after record. First Catbird trilled and then he whistled, and again he imitated one after another the songs of the sweetest birdland singers. But that was not all. He imitated the crowing of the cock, the cry of the peacock, the squealing of the tiniest pig in the pen, the lowing of the cow. One after another Peter recognized the voices of his friends, and they were all just imitations by the mocking stranger.

At last Catbird finished his performance with a shrill drawing "me-ow." Peter clapped his hands, wildly enthusiastic.

"Fine! Fine! You must

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

A STRIKING CONTRAST—The Lord lifteth up the meek; he casteth the wicked down to the ground.—Psalm 147:6.

ANOTHER GREAT AMERICAN

When the history of the United States is written for the second and third decades of the new century a United States diplomat will stand out among the few really great men of his time. Myron T. Herrick, ambassador to France, has served the United States government almost 20 years as something more than an ambassador, he was a great world citizen who has typified his country and incarnated its spirit—the spirit of helpfulness with the vision of peace. During the first days of the great war he was a tower of strength to the citizens of our country who found themselves stranded in Europe. He was during his whole residence there in the war a world figure of the first magnitude. Returning in 1921, he has since represented America at many conferences, some of them vastly important conferences, and in the negotiation of the great treaty of a lasting peace virtually outlasting war between the two countries. Ambassador Herrick has personified all that was true and forceful, far-seeing and practical, in the American character.

Last month the French people through their officials gave a great fête in honor of our ambassador; something that rarely has been done in modern history for an American ambassador. The press of Europe took the occasion of this fête to pay the tribute of Europe to our great international American. The country that produces for a crisis men like Herrick is an important factor in the new civilization that is dawning upon a new world.

SHIPS AND AIRSHIPS

We are soon to have trans-Atlantic mail service. Official announcement of mail contracts about to be let by the United States government to a British concern has been made. The British company will carry the mail aboard a great airship, and the charges for carrying will be high enough to make it possible for the enterprise to pay expenses. An airship costs a lot of money, and the overhead on airship mail service will be high.

As Americans, we receive this news with mixed feelings. We are proud that our British friends have advanced so far with aerial pioneering that they are able to offer this service, and we think our government does well to offer friendly co-operation. But we feel a distinct sting of disappointment because Americans did not get the trans-Atlantic mail going first.

Three or four years ago much was said about dirigibles that were to come out of Akron, O., bigger and better than any others in the world. German workmen and engineers, who were said to know more about airships than any other people, were headed toward Akron to carry on the work, under American encouragement and American proprietorship. We hope those airships will yet come out of Akron in great flocks, and we hope that the American government will be even more liberal in co-operating with such enterprise than it is in assisting British capital to float the first trans-Atlantic flying mail.

ESCAPE

The newest war airplanes carry special oxygen tanks to enable flyers to trail the skies six miles above the earth. That's about three miles higher than the present "ceiling" observed by airmen. Here, at last, is complete escape from saxophones, jazz bores, and everything but taxes. And as for the fatalities of war, a six-mile drop is no worse than a three-mile drop.

FRANCE SAYS WOOD

It's the national habit to feel a little on the outs with France. The French are outspoken about some of our tourists and they differ with us on the time, the place, and the national debt. But give France her due. Give her credit for the most tremendous after-war job done by any nation.

At the time of the armistice there were 7,250,000 acres of land made unsuitable for use by war. More than 95 per cent of that land has been restored to profitable condition. At the time of the armistice there were nearly 900,000 buildings destroyed. Five or six hundred thousand of them have been restored.

Twenty-two thousand and nine hundred factories were destroyed. More than twenty-one thousand have been restored.

The French are thrifty and France says wood.

BEATING A BAD NAME

It takes a long time to beat a bad reputation, but it can be done. Everybody used to know Pittsburgh as the smokiest, dirtiest city. Come experts now and Pittsburgh's name is cleared. St. Louis has 17,000 dust particles per cubic foot. That's the largest dust count in the country and St. Louis is the dirtiest city. Cincinnati is next with 16,700 dust particles to the cubic foot. Pittsburgh is respectably third.

BIG AND RICH

No rich man is ever a big man until he learns to give. He simply can't be, for unless he has the desire to give in a large way he does not have within him the qualities of greatness.

In Detroit not long ago a simple communication to the city council asking that sewage facilities be extended into a certain neighborhood, revealed the fact that Fred Fisher, vice-president of the General Motors corporation, had given a million dollars toward the erection of a new building for the Little Sister of the Poor, a Catholic organization for charity.

Not long ago Mr. and Mrs. Fisher gave $750,000 for a nurses' home in connection with a hospital.

Learning to feel one's responsibility in proportion to one's income is learning one of the fundamental lessons of civilization. Without the spirit of giving in a generous way there can be no civilization worthy of the name.

FINDING THE RIGHT MATE

When one is young the most important question is finding the right mate. It's a period of delightful uncertainty. Romance ever lurks just around the corner. But it is a time of dubious happiness and great unrest just the same. So many young people write me and ask my advice. They are worried about their own lack of attractiveness, sometimes generally, and often to certain other young folks whom they wish to win.

Following are three letters, the writers of which virtually have the same problem:

"Dear Mrs. Lee: I am a girl 23 years old, and I also prefer the old-fashioned lass, but I am not old-fashioned. I hate fellows who pet or don't treat girls with respect. I had a nice, respectable fellow. I went with him for five months, then he got smart. That happened quite a few times. I don't care for anybody anymore. I have too much pride. I guess maybe there are some worthwhile fellows in the world. What would you advise me to do?"

"DOUBTFUL"

"Dear Mrs. Lee: I am an interested reader of your column, and I would appreciate your advice very much. At a party, recently, I met a boy whom I fell in love with, and he seemed to like me very much. He said he loved me and asked me to write him, but I felt it wasn't my place to write first, so he said that he would write me and make a date, as he wanted to come to see me. I have been anxiously waiting to hear from him, but he hasn't written yet. What shall I do to win him? Do you think I should have written first?"

"BUBBLES"

"I'm very much afraid your letter reached me too late. Brown Eyes, but here it is, with the answer:

"My dear Mrs. Lee: I went with a boy for about six months, only on Sunday night. All at once he quit coming. I asked him why, and he said, 'I don't know.' He works at the same place I do, so I see him every day. He is friendly but does not ask me for dates. I would like you to give me some advice. I am invited to a party. It is a Leap Year affair and I am supposed to bring a boy friend. I would like very much to ask this boy, but I don't know whether I should. If I don't ask him to go to the party and some other time he would ask me for a date. Should I go with him or refuse him?"

"Brown Eyes,"

I wouldn't ask him to go if I were you, Brown Eyes, but if at some future time he should ask you, why do just as you please. If it would be agreeable, accept his invitation.

Care of the Feet in Diabetes

A daily warm bath, with a cold shower or rubdown following, is one of the very important habits that make for good health. There are some to whom this daily cleansing is even more important than to others, and these are the diabetics.

As I told you yesterday, Dr. Joslin, a nationally known diabetic specialist, in a recent address to the N. Y. Academy of Medicine, stated that he had many less cases of sore feet coming to his clinic since he had advised his hearers in a radio talk to wash their feet before they said their prayers. The doctor evidently takes it for granted that everyone has some sort of a daily prayer.

As gangrene is a great menace to the diabetic, he must be particularly careful to keep his feet in good condition, for real gangrene once contracted is curable only by amputation. At the Mayo Clinic they distribute to all their diabetic patients the following special instructions:

Mayo Instructions for the Care of the Feet in Diabetes.
Patients with diabetes who are forty-five years or more, often contract gangrene. The best method of treating gangrene is to prevent its occurrence.

Patients are strongly urged to carry out the following measures:
Wash the feet daily with soap and water.
Dry thoroughly.
Massage with lanolin (rubbing from the toes to the knee).
Raise yourself on your toes 20 times.

Lie on a bed and raise the legs to a vertical position for from three to five minutes; let them rest in bed for from three to five minutes; then let the legs hang over the side of the bed three to five minutes. Repeat these exercises twice daily. These measures will improve the circulation of the blood.

If nails become brittle and dry, soften them by soaking the feet in warm water for 20 minutes before attempting to cut them. Cut the nails straight across to avoid injury of the flesh. (Don't leave sharp corners.—L. H. P.) If they are cut by the chiropodist, tell him you have diabetes and caution him not to cut the skin.

Wear shoes that are large, broad and flexible and which do not bind or rub the feet. Wear new shoes one-half hour only for the first week. (I think this means one-half hour daily.—L. H. P.) If the feet become soft and tender, rub them once a day with alcohol.

Woolen hose free from darts are recommended.
Beware of torn linings and nails in shoes.

In treating corns or callouses, soak the feet in warm, soapy water, and rub off dead skin gently with gauze. Put the corns in a mixture of salicylic acid ointment and collodion one ounce. This can be applied at night for four nights. After soaking the feet, the corns will usually come off easily.

Wear pads over the corns if necessary to distribute the pressure of the shoe.
Do not attempt to remove corns with a knife.

In treating bruises and small cuts, always remember that extensive gangrene has its beginning as a small corn, a blister or a small cut. Therefore, lose no time when any bruises or cuts occur.
Avoid strong solutions of iodine and other antiseptics.
Keep the affected part clean with 50 per cent alcohol. This can be done by bandaging the Pineapple is frequently served as an accompaniment to meat dishes. It is said to aid the digestion of meat. It is recommended especially to be served with ham, old-fashioned ham and eggs being changed to ham, eggs and pineapple. In the following menu it is used with sausage to form a dish that will be new and attractive to most of you.

Baked Sausages, Rice and Pineapple
Creamed Cabbage, Prune Whip
Coffee

TODAY'S RECIPES

Baked Sausages, Rice and Pineapple—Place a layer of boiled rice in the bottom of a shallow baking dish. Arrange sausage meat in fingers on the bed of rice so they radiate from the center like spokes of a wheel. Put a spoonful of crushed pineapple in the center of the dish and between the sausages. Bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees, for one-half hour, then place under the broiler flame for a few minutes to brown the sausages. The pineapple will brown slightly, too, making a pretty and appetizing dish. Hominy is excellent instead of rice, if you prefer it.

ICE BOX SPICE TEA CAKE

(Mrs. Mary Morton's Daily Tested Recipe)

One cup brown sugar, one-half cup corn syrup, one-half cup molasses, three-fourths cup lard, one-fourth cup butter, three cups flour, three eggs, three-fourths cup cold water; one tablespoon cinnamon, one teaspoon nutmeg, one teaspoon ginger, one tablespoon soda, Cream butter and lard, add sugar and mix well together; add syrup and molasses. Add egg, one at a time and beat well after each addition, then add cold water, soda dissolved in a little hot water, and flour sifted with spices. This batter will keep in ice box and be ready whenever fresh tea cakes are desired to be baked.

Behind the Scenes in Washington

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, Mar. 2. — Senator Thomas J. Walsh of Montana is a great oil investigator. His one handicap is that he has his inhibitions.

He's a lawyer. If he can't prove a thing according to Blackstone, he shrinks from proving it. Technicalities mean a lot to him. He can match technically against anybody, but let a witness once out-match him and he yields baffled.

Thus it's possible for a guilty wretch to wriggle through Senator Walsh's fingers, even though the senator may know he can convince everybody of the scoundrel's guilt—but to do it fair he'd have to take advantage of technically unfair advantage of him—and that's "non possumus," as a lawyer.

Better let ANYBODY go than lynch him, is the way he feels about it—the legal viewpoint.

WALSH struggled through four years of oil investigating—accomplishing wonders, but always restrained from going the limit, by his dem inhibitions.

Now—within the last few weeks—observing, butting and matching the oil inquiry, Senator Gerald P. Nye of North Dakota.

Nye wasn't a senator when it started.

Even after he was appointed—and then elected—the investigation was still in the hands of a sub-committee—with Walsh as chairman—of the senate public lands committee. Nye didn't have a look-in on it.

With the beginning of this session of congress, however, the full public lands committee took the "probe" in hand, and Nye is its chairman.

So now we understand how it happens that Gerald became so prominent over night, as an oil co-investigator with Tom Walsh.

They make a rare combination. And, incidentally, not a bit of it. On the one hand, Tom was quick to see how ideally Gerald supplemented him. On the other hand, Gerald's been scrupulous not to steal any of Tom's thunder. They simply have thundered in chorus, naturally coming twice as much noise as Tom was able to make thundering solo.

It isn't all noise, either. It's improved the investigation wonderfully. Witnesses like Will Hays and John D. Rockefeller, Jr., are calculated to improve any investigation.

Nye's as good an investigator, in his way, as Walsh, but his way's entirely different.

Gerald isn't a lawyer. He's a newspaperman. It's just as much his business to investigate as it is a lawyer's, but he hasn't any inhibitions. His game's to find out what's what, and he doesn't care a hoot how he finds it.

Rules of evidence mean nix to Nye. He asks all he wants to know, and if he isn't answered, at least it's mighty embarrassing, and leads to contempt proceedings.

While it's true that Gerald's new-found assistance is invaluable to Walsh, it's also true that the former's activities wouldn't have anything like the value that they do have, if the latter weren't right on hand to make the most of them.

Nye, so to speak, does the pick-and-shovel work, but Tom has the muscle for, and Tom assays the specimens that his helper brings to the surface.

The lawyer-members of the senate are perfectly scandalized at Gerald's methods, and Walsh's own indignations must hurt him considerably, but after all, he can't prevent what Nye does, and if he will persist in doing it—why, Tom may as well get as much out of it as possible.

How to Achieve Beauty

By MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

THE PLASTIC AGE

After the fundamentals of skin-care have been firmly implanted in the young girl's mind, the wise mother will plan to carry the improvement campaign further. Her next point of considerable work will be hair. Beautiful hair must first be healthy hair, and healthy hair depends upon care and cleanliness. In selecting your daughter's hair brush, consider length and texture of her hair. There are all sizes and kind of brushes, and all of them are good, but certain bristle lengths are best for long hair, and others, most practical for the bob. A stiff brush will stimulate scalp health, but some heads are so sensitive that only a comparatively soft brush is necessary—and comfortable. You may, however, accept this as a standard rule: the nightly brushing must never be omitted if you aim for soft, lustrous hair.

If the hair denotes excessive oiliness, select both a tonic and shampoo especially designed to remove the excess. If the scalp is very dry, a tonic and shampoo made for dry hair will contain the necessary lubrication to restore the hair to healthy normal beauty. Once a month the careful mother will insure perfect hair health by a hot oil shampoo, balsam oil, being to my mind most effective. This encourages sturdy, luxuriant growth.

If you begin when the first soft down appears on the baby's head to gently brush the opposite way, you will open find that later you can coax the baby's hair to curl around your finger. After that very little care will result in soft, "natural" curls, if it has any tendency at all toward curling.

When the original growth becomes strong enough to merit actual care, and this will be not later than the end of the first year, shampoo baby's hair once a week, as carefully and as thoroughly as you do your own. Don't let it grow into awkward, uneven lengths before the barber is consulted. Personally, I do not approve of ever giving a drying massage to a child's hair. It should be rubbed dry, and exposed to the direct sunlight, so that the vitalizing rays can stimulate the scalp's health.

Peter's Adventure

By MRS. FLORENCE SMITH VINCENT

CATBIRD GIVES A CONCERT

"Good morning, sir?" Peter did not wish to frighten the bird so he made up his mind to be careful what he said. "That was a lovely concert that you birds were giving as I came along. Why did you stop so very suddenly? I hope nothing happened to break it up."

"What could happen to break it up?" questioned the bird, and somehow it seemed to Peter that the bird was mocking him. It confused him a little, but he continued:

"What could happen? Why a lot of things! For instance, if a cat appeared unexpectedly upon the scene! Would you birds keep on singing just the same? By the way, speaking of cats, have you happened to see one about? I thought that I heard one squalling just a few moments ago."

Peter looked at the stranger in gray, and this time there no mistaking it—the chap was amused. His air was decidedly mocking. Yet at the same time he looked so merry and mischievous that the boy could not feel offended. This time was something queer going on! The stranger knew what it was. Peter was determined to find out.

"Well," demanded the boy, "what is it? Where are the birds? And did you see the cat? And who are you?"

Three questions at once were a good many for any bird to answer, and the gray stranger made no reply. Just looked as mocking as ever!

Then "Me-ow! Me-ow! Me-ow!" For the third time the cat squatted. Then a low, throaty sound came from directly above the boy's head. Peter stared. No cat—not a sign of one—but there in the very spot from whence the noise had come sat the gray stranger. Peter became suspicious.

"I do believe you were making that noise," cried he. "Come, now, don't make fun of me any longer but tell me the truth. Weren't you?"

The merry fellow bowed his head in assent.

"Of course I was," retorted he. "The only wonder to me is that you didn't discover it before. Evidently you do not know who I am."

"I can guess now," cried the boy. "You are Catbird."

"Right!" declared the stranger.

"At least that is what almost every one calls me, but I am known to a few as the Mocking-bird of the North."

"Are you? Why?" demanded the boy curiously. "By the way, where are the other birds that were here before I came?"

Catbird laughed.

"That's the question," cried he, "and here is the answer!"

Then to the boy's complete astonishment the bird in gray tightened his hold upon a tendril of the honeysuckle vine, threw back his head, and Peter found himself listening to the most wonderful music that he had ever heard.

Mellow and full, the feathers of Victoria gave record after record. First Catbird trilled and then he whistled, and again he imitated one after another the songs of the sweetest birdland singers. But that was not all. He imitated the crowing of the cock, the cry of the peacock, the squealing of the tiniest pig in the pen, the lowing of the cow. One after another Peter recognized the voices of his friends, and they were all just imitations by the mocking stranger.

At last Catbird finished his performance with a shrill drawing "me-ow." Peter clapped his hands, wildly enthusiastic.

"Fine! Fine! You must be the most wonderful bird in the world. How did you ever learn to give imitations like that?"

Next—A Mocking Rival.

FAMED GRID PLAYER EMPHASIZES SPORT AT COURT BANQUET

Carl Finke Presents Trophy To League Champions

Students were urged to take a greater interest in all branches of scholastic activity, preferably athletics, in a brief talk by Earl "Red" Blaik, assistant Army football coach, who was honor guest and principal speaker at a banquet given Central High School's basketball squad in the school cafeteria Thursday night.

The speaker divided students into three general classes: 1—Those with thoughts for nothing but studies, 2—The medium student, interested in school activities and studies, 3—Students not interested in anything.

Blaik, who was an all-Ohio end at Miami University and an All-American end on the Army, expressed himself in favor of the middle class of students.

He asserted that even churches are beginning to realize they must appeal to the young generation through activity, which in that case is athletics. Blaik pointed to the number of church basketball teams being formed. Athletics do more than merely build up a physique; they are a character builder and bring out determination in a student as well as a thousand and one other things, he said.

"Be interested in athletics," was the football star's parting advice.

The Dayton Daily News basketball trophy, placed in competition in the Miami Valley League for the first time this season, was formally presented to the school by Carl Finke, sports editor of the News.

Xenia won the trophy, a silver replica of a basketball, by winning all of its five league games, and retaining possession of it for one year or until another school wins the championship. It may be possessed permanently by the school winning the title three times.

Finke made the presentation talk congratulating the team on its victory. William Clemans, captain of the team, responded with a talk and accepted the trophy on behalf of the school. He turned it over to Principal Louis Hammerle.

The Rev. W. H. Tilford gave the invocation and following the serving of the banquet, Elbert Babb, captain of the high school basketball team in 1926, was introduced as the toastmaster by Superintendent H. C. Pendry.

Mayor John W. Prugh delivered the first talk, congratulating the squad on behalf of the city. Coach Victor Kolb then introduced members of the court squad.

The banquet closed with singing of a song. The affair was fairly well attended by basketball fans, including business men of the city.

Bowling

The Red Wing Co. ousted the Brown Furniture Co. from second place in the City League by losing out the league-leading Downtown Country Club two out of three games while the Chryslers were administering a similar dose to the Browns in a pair of league bowling matches Thursday night.

The third and deciding game in the Red Wing-Country Club match was won by the former team by a bare two pins, 841 to 829. Anderson topped the winners with 547 while Moorehead led the losers with 564.

Both teams rolled exceptionally well in the Chrysler-Browns match. Chryslers rolled games of 812, 879 and 924, but were beaten on total pins by the Browns. McFadden led the winners with 584 followed by Jordan with 573. Roach was box score for the losers with 564.

LARGER CROWDS AND GREATER PROFITS AT COUNTY TOURNEY

Recent fourteenth annual Greene County Class B Basketball Tournament was a financial success with receipts exceeding the 1927 tourney by $176.35, according to a report prepared by Superintendent A. F. Roush of Ross Twp. High School, who is president of the Greene County Athletic Association and acted as manager of the tournament for the second straight year.

Receipts of the two days of the 1928 tourney amounted to $980.85 as compared with $804.50 last year. Total attendance for the five playing sessions was 3,572, an estimated increase of 1,500 over last year.

After tourney expenses amounting to $443.25 are paid, each school which participated in the event, will receive slightly more than $50 of the remaining balance. Last year each school received $40.07.

Under rules governing the tourney, the net proceeds are divided equally between the competing schools. The O. S. and S. O. Home, however will receive only half a share because of the fact no girl's team represented the Xenia institution in the tournament.

The tournament, considered from every angle, was one of the greatest if not the greatest in the history of the event. Greater interest was shown than ever before and the caliber of the tourney games was easily up to former standards.

Copies of the financial report will be submitted to each school superintendent and to H. C. Aultman, county school superintendent.

Earlier Class B contests Friday morning resulted in Centerville defeating Botkins 37 to 29 and Lanier beating Verona 36 to 28.

Centerville will meet Tippecanoe City, the favorite to win the tournament, Saturday at 11 a. m. Lanier plays Zanesfield in the second round at 1 p. m. Saturday. The score:

GEGNER STARS WHEN FAMOUS AUTOS BEAT MIDDLETOWN TEAM

Xenia Forward Gets Thirty-One Points Thursday Night

Inspired by the play of "Butch" Gegner, forward, the Xenia Famous Auto Five defeated the Crystal Tissue independent team 56 to 47 in a high-scoring basketball game at Middletown, O., Thursday night.

The Middle quintet, considered one of the foremost teams in the Industrial League in that city, could not stop Gegner, who piled up thirty-one points and that alone accounted for the victory.

The rival teams were about evenly matched and the lead alternated frequently in the last half. Xenia spotted itself to an early advantage and was ahead 13 to 8 in the first quarter. This margin was reduced to 24 to 21 at the half.

The visitors were outplayed in the third quarter and Middletown was leading by one point, 34 to 33 at the end of the period.

An avalanche of baskets produced the victory in the final quarter, featured by frequent scoring on the part of both teams.

Gegner was the shining light of the Xenia offense with fourteen field goals and three fouls for thirty-one points. He made seven baskets in each half, a majority being of the under-basket variety. His running mate, LeSourd, contributed twelve points and Smith, center, eleven. Boxwell, regular guard, did not play.

Mers, forward, was the offensive star for Middletown with eleven baskets and a foul for twenty-three points. He was closely followed by Ed Ryan, guard, who made seven points.

The Crystal Tissue team had won nine straight games until it met its superior in the Famous Auto Five.

Xenia will meet the Bloomington Independents next week. The score:

CENTRAL PREPARES FOR FIRST TOURNEY CONTEST SATURDAY

Xenia Central High School's basketball squad was scheduled to put the finishing touches on its preparation Friday for the opening of the Class A division of the Southwestern Ohio regional basketball tournament at Dayton Saturday.

Congested to be one of the strongest teams entered in the tourney, as indicated by the fact it is among the four "seeded" schools, the Central quintet is primed to live up to its reputation in its first round contest with Troy High School Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock.

The Class A program, starting Saturday, calls for seven games, beginning with the Springfield-Piqua contest at 2 p. m. Springfield is a top-heavy favorite to win this game.

Dayton Catholic meets Urbana at 3 o'clock with little to choose between the two quintets.

Steele High, playing Greenville at 4 o'clock, should also win without trouble. Then comes the Xenia-Troy battle at 5 o'clock, the final game on the afternoon card.

The Miamisburg-Bellefontaine contest inaugurates the evening program at 7 o'clock. Bellefontaine is favored slightly. Stivers opposes the U. of D. Preps at 8 o'clock and may encounter stiffer opposition

FAMED GRID PLAYER EMPHASIZES SPORT AT COURT BANQUET

Carl Finke Presents Trophy To League Champions

Students were urged to take a greater interest in all branches of scholastic activity, preferably athletics, in a brief talk by Earl "Red" Blaik, assistant Army football coach, who was honor guest and principal speaker at a banquet given Central High School's basketball squad in the school cafeteria Thursday night.

The speaker divided students into three general classes: 1—Those with thoughts for nothing but studies. 2—The medium student, interested in school activities and studies. 3—Students not interested in anything.

Blaik, who was an all-Ohio end at Miami University and an All-American end on the Army, expressed himself in favor of the middle class of students. He asserted that even churches are beginning to realize they must appeal to the young generation through activity, which in that case is athletics. Blaik pointed to the number of church basketball teams being formed. Athletics do more than merely build up a physique; they are a character builder and bring out determination in a boy as well as a thousand and one other things, he said.

"Be interested in athletics," was the football star's parting advice. The Dayton Daily News basketball trophy, placed in competition in the Miami Valley League for the first time this season, was formally presented to the school by Carl Finke, sports editor of the News.

Xenia won the trophy, a silver replica of a basketball, by winning all of its five league games, and retains possession of it for one year or until another school wins the championship. It may be possessed permanently by the school winning the title three times.

Finke made the presentation talk congratulating the team on its victory. William Clemans, captain of the team, responded with a talk and accepted the trophy on behalf of the school. He turned it over to Principal Louis Hammerle.

The Rev. W. H. Thilford gave the invocation and following the serving of the banquet, Elbert Babb, captain of the high school basketball team, responded with a talk and was introduced as the toastmaster by Superintendent H. C. Pendry.

Mayor John W. Prugh delivered the first talk, congratulating the squad on behalf of the city. Coach Victor Kolb then introduced members of the court squad.

The banquet closed with singing of a song. The affair was fairly well attended by basketball fans, including business men of the city.

Bowling

The Red Wing Co. ousted the Brown Furniture Co. from second place in the City League by nailing out the league-leading Downtown Country Club two out of three games while the Chryslers were administering a similar dose to the Browns in a pair of league bowling matches Thursday night.

The third and deciding game in the Red Wing-Country Club match was won by the former team by a bare two pins, 841 to 829. Anderson topped the winners with 587 while Moorehead led the losers with 564.

Both teams rolled exceptionally well in the Chryslers-Browns match. Chryslers rolled games of 812, 879 and 924, but were beaten on total pins by the Browns. McFadden led the winners with 584 followed by Jordan with 573. Roach was best for the losers with 564.

LARGER CROWDS AND GREATER PROFITS AT COUNTY TOURNEY

Recent fourteenth annual Greene County Class B Basketball Tournament was a financial success with receipts exceeding the 1927 tourney by $176.35, according to a report prepared by Superintendent A. F. Roush of Ross Twp. High School, who is president of the Greene County Athletic Association and acted as manager of the tournament for the second straight year.

Receipts of the two days of the 1928 tourney amounted to $980.85 as compared with $804.50 last year. Total attendance for the five playing sessions was 3,572, an estimated increase of 1,500 over last year.

After tourney expenses amounting to $443.25 are paid, each school which participated in the event, will receive slightly more than $50 of the remaining balance. Last year each school received $40.07.

Under rules governing the tourney, the net proceeds are divided equally between the competing schools. The O. S. and S. O. Home, however, will receive only half a share because of the fact no girl's team represented the Xenia institution in the tournament.

The tournament, considered from every angle, was one of the greatest if not the greatest in the history of the event. Greater interest was shown than ever before and the caliber of the tourney games was easily up to former standards.

Copies of the financial report will be submitted to each school superintendent and to H. C. Aultman, county school superintendent.

Earlier Class B contests Friday morning resulted in Centerville defeating Botkins 37 to 29 and Lanier beating Verona 36 to 28. Centerville will meet Tippecanoe City, the favorite to win the tournament, Saturday at 11 a. m. Lanier plays Zanesfield in the second round at 1 p. m. Saturday. The score:

GEGNER STARS WHEN FAMOUS AUTOS BEAT MIDDLETOWN TEAM

Xenia Forward Gets Thirty-One Points Thursday Night

Inspired by the play of "Butch" Gegner, forward, the Xenia Famous Auto Five defeated the Crystal Tissue Independent team 56 to 47 in a high-scoring basketball game at Middletown, O., Thursday night. The Middle quintet, considered one of the foremost teams in the Industrial League in that city, could not stop Gegner, who piled up thirty-one points and that alone accounted for the victory. The rival teams were about evenly matched and the lead alternated frequently in the last half. Xenia spotted itself to an early advantage and was ahead 13 to 8 in the first quarter. This margin was reduced to 24 to 21 at the half. The visitors were outplayed in the third quarter and Middletown was leading by one point, 34 to 33 at the end of the period.

An avalanche of baskets produced the victory in the final quarter, featured by frequent scoring on the part of both teams. Gegner was the shining light of the Xenia offense with fourteen field goals and three fouls for thirty-one points. He made seven baskets in each half, a majority being of the under-basket variety. His running mate, LeSourd, contributed twelve points and Smith, center, eleven. Boxwell, regular guard, did not play.

Mers, forward, was the offensive star for Middletown with eleven baskets and a foul for twenty-three points. He was closely followed by Ed Ryan, guard, who made seven points. The Crystal Tissue team had won nine straight games until it met its superior in the Famous Auto Five.

Xenia will meet the Bloomingsburg Independents next week. The score:

CENTRAL PREPARES FOR FIRST TOURNEY CONTEST SATURDAY

Xenia Central High School's basketball squad was scheduled to put the finishing touches on its preparation Friday for the opening of the Class A division of the Southwestern Ohio regional basketball tournament at Dayton Saturday.

Conceded to be one of the strongest teams entered in the tourney, as indicated by the fact it is among the four "seeded" schools, the Central quintet is primed to live up to its reputation in its first round contest with Troy High School Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock.

The Class A program, starting Saturday, calls for seven games, beginning with the Springfield-Piqua contest at 2 p. m. Springfield is a top-heavy favorite to win this game.

Dayton Catholic meets Urbana at 3 o'clock with little to choose between the two quintets.

Steele High, playing Greenville at 4 o'clock, should also win without trouble. Then comes the Xenia-Troy battle at 5 o'clock, the final game on the afternoon card.

The Miamisburg-Bellefontaine contest inaugurates the evening program at 7 o'clock. Bellefontaine is favored slightly. Silvers opposes the U. of D. Preps at 8 o'clock and may encounter stiffer opposition.

And here is how the plan operates financially: The first 20 members paid $150 each. With that they bought a plane. Others came along to pay membership fees and dues. Dues provide maintenance and fuel.

Sees Future for Clubs
"Our plan would work anywhere," says Mitchell, the instructor. "It enables us to have a plane where none individually could have afforded it."

"I act as pilot instructor and am the only member of the club to earn a livelihood through it."

"Aviation interests more young men than the average person thinks, and if they only knew how to go about having their own plane and flying, more such organizations would spring up over the country."

The club serves to keep former army and navy pilots with a "hand in" Active officers say it sends better qualified reserve officers to summer flying camps, and gives the town an airplane for other practical purposes when needed.

I Have Said in My Heart

By IDAH McGLONE GIBSON

THE REASON WHY

I do not often go to afternoon parties, but the other day in a moment of weakness I accepted an invitation to a luncheon and bridge.

When I arrived I found twenty other women, including my hostess, in the private dining room at the supposedly best hotel in town.

My hostess is a very lovely woman, as were the most of the others.
They were all in their prettiest frocks and some even had on new hats to match the spring flowers that decorated the table profusely.

The luncheon was well cooked and beautifully served. Chicken and mushrooms, underglass, and salad, strawberry parfait and other delicious and expensive viands.

For two hours we sat and stuffed ourselves with too much food and then when we became stupid and sleepy we repaired to another room to play bridge.

Every one of those women was charming and intelligent, but the only thing that I heard talked about while we were at luncheon was
"The President's Daughter" and the sensational fact that Mrs. Snyder went to the execution chair in the firm belief that after the volts of electricity should be sent through her, she was to be given over to her friends and resuscitated. Can one blame some money-mad syndicate for publishing sensational tabloid newspapers? It looks as though that is all the people want to read and talk about.

After the game began no one said a word except someone criticized her partner for not making a finesse or on some other of the important rules of the game.

For three hours straight, twenty women sat there and played cards
as though their lives depended upon it and then after two of them had received their beautiful prizes they bade their hostess goodbye and said the pretentious polite things to their hostess and hurried home.

"A pleasant time was had by all."
But I did not carry one thing home with me that I might remember except perhaps the beauty of my hostess and the pretty frocks of the guests.

I sometimes wonder who would come to one's party if the hostess would ask each guest to tell what had interested her most the last week. Every one of those women I know had some other thing, some

Charlie Ray, who plays opposite Leatrice Joy in "Vanity" at the Bijou Friday night, is planning another "comeback." He is rehearsing in an obscure theater in New York for his forthcoming appearance in the revival of an ancient melodrama.

In 1921, Ray was welcomed into vanced on the show. The suit was withdrawn. It is said Gray took this action when a showing of Ray's assets was made.

Twenty Years '08- '28

His present visit to New York was not known until he appeared in the West Side Court to defend himself against a claim of $1,500. Around the Broadway shops it is said he is living in a two-room flat on the East Side. He is starting where he left off when the flims lifted him out of the "kerosene cir-

Antioch College students are to give the play, "The Great Umbrella Case," at the Yellow Springs Opera House for the benefit of the Athletic Association of the college. In addition, Harold Messenger, student, and Elbert Babbs, former student, will give a twenty-minute sketch entitled, "Review of Reviews."

Wilbur Zell has returned home from Toronto, Canada, where he has completed his first year's course in the Ontario Veterinary School, a branch of the University of Toronto.

JACK and JILL

A MODERN STORY OF LOVE AND ROMANCE
By CLIFFORD WEBB, AUTHOR OF "BROKEN THREADS" "TWIN LOVES" "THE JOB SISTER" ETC.
© 1928 THE CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION, INC.

READ THIS FIRST:

Jill Justin, ultra-modern at 20, and adorably pretty, is kidnapped by auto bandits, but is rescued by Jack Stuart, who takes her home, and remains to win her hand in marriage.

Three wonderfully happy years of married life are allotted Jack and Jill. At their expiration the young couple find themselves the proud parents of twin boys and a girl. Then the Big Event transpires.

Stuart and Tony Justin are paid $100,000 for an interest in their tungsten mine by Pat Sweeney, father of Mary, whom he has nicknamed "Mike."

Easy Money! But instead of joy, it seems to bring only distrust and misery to the Stuarts, and is the cause of repeated quarrels.

Following a reconciliation, Jack Stuart answers a mysterious telephone call, informing him that Tony is to be coaxed out to the Casino, a gambling stockade, and fleeced out of $8,000 on the old "wire-tapping" scheme. Jack decides to rush to the Casino to save Tony.

(Now Go On With The Story)

CHAPTER XXXVII

"When Mrs. Stuart comes home tell her I've been called out of town," he instructed the girl. "I may be gone all night, although I expect to be back sooner."

Then he slipped his emergency flask into his hip pocket, donned his overcoat, and hurried down to the garage. Jill had taken the sedan, so he needed a fast roadster. Three minutes later he was on his way to the Casino.

Tony Justin was being well entertained by congenial companions. The plotters in the little game naturally saw to it that it was costing the Lady of Large Alimony a tidy sum to fix everything. Just right, but the Lady was playing for a stake, for something she particularly wanted. That this happened to be another woman's husband was all the same to her. All men were fools, and fools were fair game.

She was that among women, a love thief, a wife robber. No man found any appeal in her eyes until he had become the beloved of some other woman. Then straightway he began to look good to her.

It was because she had immediately sensed Jill Stuart's deep, passionate love for her husband, and Mike Sweeney's strong admiration for him, that Nita Ravelle had found Jack desirable.

She didn't want to marry him. She wouldn't, as she often avowed, marry any man, even though he were a millionaire. Her observations had shown her that not all wives, even of millionaires, had $12,000 a year to spend on themselves. And her annuity was guaranteed by a trust company—$12,000 a year as long as she remained unmarried.

Stealing of other women's husbands—that was her game, her pastime. Opposition lent piquancy to the game, made her all the keener for conquest. That Chance had sent such a love-thief to Elliston was Jill Stuart's misfortune. And now hear what the love thief has to say to her leading belly-dancer and assistant, Francis Le Tarte. "On telephone her at 5 o'clock," she instructed him. "She'll be home by that time. Tell her he's gone to the Casino to meet me. She'll want proof, so tell her to get her friend, McGuffy, and you'll drive 'em out there, where she can see for herself. Believe me, what she'll see will be a plenty! But she must not be allowed to talk with him, nor be to see her or to know she's there. Then, when he finally decides that Tony isn't coming, I'll ask him to let me ride home with him. Home—hah!"

It was momentarily significant, that little in-drawn "hah!" It conveyed a deeper meaning even than "hah!" Le Tarte knew it. He had known that it signified murder, that it would have induced him to forego his chance at the $500 promised him. For the professor was hard up, as usual. He needed that five hundred.

Anger, despair and doubt—three of the disgraces and despoilers of life, surged up in the heart of Jill Stuart. Each fought for control. Blind anger gripped her one moment at the thought of Jack's betrayal of her again. Yes, again, she told herself, for if this story proved true—if he had gone to meet that woman, as Le Tarte declared—then he had been guilty on previous counts.

At this thought, despair would clutch her, for if the father of her children—And then, once more there would creep in the ever-consoling doubt which, in this case, had reversed its usual meaning and signified hope.

Le Tarte had telephoned. Jill had been told that Jack was to meet Nita Ravelle, early that evening in the cabaret of the Casino. She knew that parties from towns within a radius of thirty miles flocked there. It was a replica of the big city night club. Suppers were served at prices on a par with city club prices.

When the professor had suggested going out to the Casino, Jill had refused. But he had persisted. She could, he told her, take her friend, McGuffy, along as a medium of safety and propriety for herself.

JIMMY JAMS

Jack met Nita Ravelle in the cabaret of the Casino.

"Very well," she had finally told him, "I'll go just to prove that you are mistaken. I'll get someone and pick you up at the Central at 6 o'clock."

Where, she wondered, could she find Ann? Then it suddenly occurred to her that Mike Sweeney was the logical one to take along on this trip. Clara had told her, immediately upon her arrival home from shopping, about Jack having been "called out of town and might be gone all night." Did Clara know where Mr. Stuart was going—to what town?

No, the girl told her. She had been in the nursery, Jennie and she, with the children, when the telephone rang. Mr. Stuart had answered. Then he had called her and said he was going out of town and for her to tell Mrs. Stuart. He had then departed. That was all.

Jill took down the receiver and asked for the Sweeney number. A servant answered and she asked for Miss Sweeney. Two minutes passed. Then Mike's voice came to her over the wire, clear and musical. "Yes, this is Miss Sweeney."

"Oh, Mike!" exclaimed Jill, with a hysterical sharpness. "Dear friend, I'm in the most terrible trouble! Listen!"

Then, in a rush of words that fairly tumbled over each other in her anxiety to explain as quickly as possible, Jill acquainted Mike with what Le Tarte had told her, and the message Jack had left with Clara for her.

"What, in heaven's name, Mike, shall I do?" she asked at the finish. "Go out there yourself, as quick as you possibly can. Make sure he's there to meet her!" advised Mike. Instantly, she added: "If you want me I'll take you out in our limousine. It's fast and comfortable. If Le Tarte goes along he can sit in the back seat!"

"That's splendid of you, Mike!" exclaimed Jill, with fervor. "I was going to ask you to go with me, for I wouldn't, of course, go alone with Le Tarte. When can you be here?"

"In twenty minutes, or twenty-five at the most," replied the girl who Jill had hated or thought she did, only a month or so before. "Strong!"

Jill hurriedly changed her afternoon shopping suit for a modest evening gown, drew a tight-fitting turtleneck over her bobbed head, and donned her sealskin coat. Then she opened a small drawer of her wardrobe trunk, and took out a 25-caliber automatic pistol.

For a full minute she stood there with the pistol in her hand, considering the advisability of taking it with her. Suddenly something seemed to warn her against it. She laid the gun back in the drawer.

Thus are the most important events in life often determined.

There is always an instant when the issue hangs in the balance. Had Jill taken the automatic that night she would have been a killer, in all probability. For an automatic, 25 at close range, is a deadly weapon, ever in the hands of a woman.

"Listen to me, Jill," said Mike Sweeney, as she inserted her lithe body beneath the big steering wheel of the limousine, and Jill settled into the seat at her side. "This affair has a funny look—Jack getting a hurry-up call at 3 o'clock, taking him out of town, and then at 5 Le Tarte calling you up with the information that Jack is meeting Nita Ravelle at the Casino tonight. Seems to me if Jack knew he was meeting Nita there he'd have taken along something besides his emergency flask, which holds only a half a pint, and which, you say, Clara saw him put in his pocket. Jack knows Nita's capacity. That half a pint makes just about two drinks for her."

"Maybe she's taking the liquor," said Jill, hoping in her heart that Mike's suggestion of a frame-up would turn out correct.

The professor was waiting at the Central drug store, all dressed up in evening toggery, when Jill entered and gave him the signal to follow. She thought he betrayed a little chagrin when he saw Mike and the limousine. But if he was disappointed he gave no further sign, merely inclining his head as Mike indicated the spacious luxuriousness in the rear, and Jill resumed her seat in front. The car was not divided by any partition, however, so he was not cut off from the conversation.

"How did you come to learn, professor, that Jack and Nita were to meet at the Casino?"

Mike Sweeney shot the question from the right-hand corner of her mouth, her gaze fixed steadily on the road ahead. It was the first word that had been spoken since the car had pulled away from the curb in front of the drug store. The professor perked up, every faculty instantly on the alert. He had been lounging in a corner of the rear seat. Now he changed to a seat close to that of the driver.

"How did ah leah'n?" he repeated, in the very poorly executed southern drawl and dialect he frequently affected. "Why, the lady hush? Intoh-me'd me!"

"What time was it when she 'intoh-me'd' you?" quizzed the persistent Mike, who, when she wanted to know anything, asked right out loud, without any hesitancy.

"Somewha' close to foah this afternoon," replied the professor guardedly.

"Did she telephone?" asked Mike. "Oh, no, it was in the post office. We just happened to meet."
